Air War on Germany Reaches New Fury; Knox Warns of New Submarine Menace

GEN. MARSHALL SEEN AS BOSS OF INVASION

RAF Blasts Munich Following Fortress Attacks on City of Stuttgart.

WIDEN HOLD ON ITALY

Allies Extend Bridgehead as Nazi Jitters Over Blow From West Increase.

(By Associated Press)

Searing, relentless aerial smashes at Nazi war sinews and a report that American Gen. George C. Marshall would command Allied armies in the European theater sharpened German fears today of invasion soon from the west, while in Italy invasion armies widened their hold on the "toe" coast to about 60 miles.

In the east, the Germans were falling back before dogged Russian attacks with Stalino's capture expected momentarily.

The air war from Britain was reaching an unprecedented scale in pre-invasion softening assaults.

RAF heavy bombers last night blasted the war city and Nazi shrine of Munich on the heels of a big Flying Fortress blow at Stuttgart, and huge swarms of U. S. heavy and medium bombers roared out against Europe by daylight again to maintain the offensive for the sixth consecutive day.

Although impeded by demolitions in their drive through difficult country, British and Canadian troops have captured Palmi six miles up the west coast from Bagnara in Italy, and struck 10 miles inland to capture Delianuovo, about eight miles north of the already-occupied mountain foothill town of San Stefano, Allied headquarters announced today.

Allied troops also were extending their bridgehead to the south beyond Melito, and U. S. Flying Fortresses battered anew at air-

DEFEAT CERTAIN

FDR Foresees Beating of Axis Forces In Message To Brazil.

WASHINGTON — (NS) — President Roosevelt today told the people of Brazil that the United Nations can now "foresee with certainty the total and inevitable defeat" of the Axis forces.

In a message to President Getulio Vargas of Brazil on the occasion of that nation's independence day, President Roosevelt said: "In the past year the close ties which have long bound the people of Brazil and those of the United States have grown ever firmer through their comradeship of arms in the common struggle against Axis tyranny and its threat to the freedom they cherish.

"Brazil and the United States, together with their staunch allies, can foresee with certainty the total and inevitable defeat of the forces of treachery and oppression, now that the fight is being carried vigorously and successfully to the homelands of our enemies."

PROFITS UP

Westinghouse Swells Earnings by Nearly $2,000,000.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today reported net profits for the 12 months ending June 30, of $20,115,400, equal to $6.27 on combined 7 per cent participating preferred and common stock, compared to $18,280,821, or $5.70 a share in the previous year.

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Tokyo radio, in broadcasts reported to the Office of War Information, told the people of Japan today that the "development of the war situation hereafter warrants absolutely no optimism." FDR, Churchill Believed To Be Waiting Italy Capitulation

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Resumption of war talks between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill today indicated that they may be awaiting some major development in the war requiring their decision a development that might well be the capitulation of Italy.

Churchill has been away from London a month. He and the president spent eight days together at Quebec last month and have continued their conferences since then at the White House. After Churchill's return from Harvard University yesterday, there was growing evidence that he and Mr. Roosevelt are just marking time.

Churchill's delay in returning home might stem from the facts that:

1. There are repeated protestations of desires for peace coming from Rome, in addition to dispatches from Madrid portraying the Italians as "going through the motions" of defending their country against the Allies. Axis reports indicate a bad case of jitters about an impending Allied invasion of the Balkans.

2. Enrico Galeazzi, governor general of Vatican City and an official close to Pope Pius XII, is en route to the United States. There have been reports that he has a message from the Pope to the president.

GET PERMITS

Nearly 200 Apply as Driver License Sale Opens.

Mansfield motorists today started to buy their new drivers' licenses as the sale began at deputy registrars' offices throughout the state.

By noon today nearly 200 motorists had purchased their licenses, Jack Berger, secretary of the Richland county Auto club said.

The new licenses are good during the 12 months beginning Oct. 1 and ending Sept. 30, 1944. Only persons exempt from having the new licenses are members of the armed services, home on furlough, who had licenses before entering the service, officials explained.

To drive a car after Sept. 30 a motorist must have a new permit.

Ashland Trooper Lands In Tree In Invasion Of Lae

"Boy, was I lucky in that tree landing. I got my clothes all cut up, yet not a scratch."

Those were the words of Staff Sgt. Thomas Mitchell of Ashland, who took part in the paratrooper landing when American troops seized the western aproach to Lae in the Markham valley Sunday.

The story, relayed to the News-Journal by the Associated Press, was recounted by Lieut. Monie Kleban, San Antonio, Tex., assistant public relations officer in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command. He was the only reporter to make the leap.

"Ahead we could see a chute in a tree and wondered what happened to the man who landed in that one," Kleban said.

"Down the track to greet us was an excited youngster, his coat and trousers in long rips, but he was smiling and unhurt. It was Mitchell."

At Ashland, all that could be learned immediately about Sgt. Mitchell was that he graduated from Ashland high school in 1939.

BOND COST HIGH TO BOMB BERLIN

Blasting Would Cost Every Man, Woman, Child 1 Bond, Secretary Says.

In connection with the 15 billion dollar Third war loan drive to get under way this week, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., said yesterday the cost of blasting Berlin off the map will be pretty close to $18.75 the price of a $25 war bond, for each man, woman and child in the country."

Richland county's portion of this largest war loan drive is to be $6,060,000 and workers will start selling "bonds to blast Berlin" Thursday, official opening of the drive.

Destruction of Berlin will cost six times as much as the estimated $3 16 000,000 or $3 per person, spent in wrecking Hamburg, Morgenthau said.

Treasury officials said the money to buy the bonds that buy bombs will have to come from the people rather than the banks this time. This means a real job for Richland county's 70,000 residents.

Chairman H. G. Brunner will have 5,000 campaign workers selling bonds in Mansfield and the county from the opening date of the drive to Sept. 30, the closing date.

Of the county goal, Mansfield has been called on to raise $1,600,000 while Shelby's portion is $900,000. Other townships and villages are expected to buy $600,000 worth.

NAZIS ESCAPE

Midwest Police Told to Be on Lookout for Pair.

CHICAGO — (NS) — Spencer J. Drayton, head of the Chicago Federal Bureau of Investigation office, today asked midwest police officers and citizens to be on the lookout for two Nazi prisoners of war who escaped Sunday from a prison camp at Trinidad, Colo.

They were described as Lieut. Erb Horst, 23, five feet 8½ inches tall, 158 pounds, brown hair and eyes and fair complexion, and Lieut. Karl Galwitz, same height and weight as Horst, gray eyes, brown hair, fair complexion.

Thinks They'll Have Doubtful Value Against Renewed Raids By Germans.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The navy revealed today that American warships and aircraft destroyed 29 of the more than 90 Axis U-boats announced as sunk during May, June and July.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The Germans have developed new submarine tactics to counter Allied air attacks on U-boats and, as soon as the necessary refitting has been completed, will resume concentrated assaults on Allied shipping, Secretary of Navy Frank Knox said today.

Allied airplane and blimp operations against U-boats succeeded in reducing the submarine menace in recent months, Knox said at a news conference, but the Germans have developed tactics which menace such craft and would make helicopters, with which the navy is experimenting, of doubtful value.

Recent news stories have told of U-boats scoring hits on aircraft. One U-boat shot down a blimp.

The Germans have recalled many of their U-boats from the battle of the Atlantic, Knox said, and are now refitting them, probably with anti-aircraft guns. They will send these submarines back into the battle with orders to "fight it out" against aircraft, he predicted.

"Just as sure as sunrise," Knox told a news conference, "there'll be fresh attacks."

PROMISES TEST

Ferguson To Attack Legality of 7 Ohio Commissions.

COLUMBUS —(NS)— State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson today announced that he would force a supreme court test of the legality of seven commissions created by the last legislature.

Basing his decision on the constitutional provision that legislators cannot serve on commissions established during their term or for one year thereafter, Ferguson said his office would pay no bills for expenses submitted by the commission.

Chief among the seven commissions, all of which have members of the legislature serving on them, are the blind and deaf school commission, and the post war program commission.

The other five commissions are: Highway recodification commission, salary study commission, administrative law commission, school survey commission, and the small business commission.

Congressional Limited Cut In Two As It Rounds Curve In Philadelphia; 20th Century Locomotive Blows Up Near Canastota, N. Y.

(By Associated Press)

Two of America's crack trains—the Congressional Limited and the 20th Century Limited—were wrecked within approximately 10 hours last night and today with at least 65 persons killed in the first crash and at least three in the Century crack-up.

The flyers, each carrying scores of Labor day vacationists, were bound for New York when the wrecks occurred.

The Pennsylvania railroad's Congressional Limited, one of the world's fastest trains, split in two as it headed into a curve at Frankford Junction, in northeast Philadelphia. The train was en route from Washington.

At least 65 persons were known dead and 123 injured.

Inspector Thomas Burns, heading a police detail at the wreck scene, said he believed at least 30 bodies remained in the wreckage. The railroad company said the number probably would not exceed "four or five." Dr. Herbert M. Goddard, Philadelphia coroner, continued to estimate the probable ultimate total at "75 to 100."

Eight cars of the Washington to New York express wrenched loose and piled up last night in one of the nation's worst rail disasters.

Railroad officials said a waste-packed journal box "ran hot" on the front of the seventh car, burning the wheel loose from the axle.

The eastbound 20th Century Limited, New York Central extra fare Chicago-New York train was wrecked today two miles east of Canastota, N. Y., when the locomotive's boiler exploded, killing the three crewmen in the cab.

At least seven others were injured when the flyer left the track at 1:31 a. m. Canastota is 18 miles east of Syracuse.

Joseph Endres, Syracuse district claim agent for the railroad, who said the boiler explosion caused the wreck, reported 173 passengers were on the train.

He identified the dead as George Pierce of Syracuse, engineer; J. Christian Larsen of Syracuse, fireman, and Clarence Wriker of Albany, traveling fireman.

Wriker's body was found in a field, about 60 feet from the four-track right of way. Parts of the engine were scattered over the field.

The locomotive, coal car, mail car and nine of the 15 passenger cars were derailed. The first four cars plunged down an embank-

47 PERISH IN HOTEL BLAZE

Guests Trapped on Second Floor of Building In Houston, Texas.

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Tex. — (AP) — The charred ruins of a small midtown hotel swept by fire disgorged the bodies of 17 persons early today.

Searchers were digging through the smoldering building for others still unaccounted for among the 133 war workers and transients known to have registered for a night's lodging.

Eyewitnesses said many men jumped from the windows and a fire escape.

The blaze, discovered shortly after midnight, quickly blocked off one of the two fire escapes to the three-story brick structure. An inside stairway likewise was made impassable for those caught on the two upper floors.

Flames poured from every opening and crevice in the building, one of the oldest in Houston. Firemen could not lay their ladders against it.

W. A. Wheeler, occupant of a second-floor room, said he ran to one fire escape and found it cut off.

"Then I and three other men went to the third floor trying for the (other) fire escape. We ran stumbling over bodies.

"At the fire escape men were jammed together fighting to

Bomber 'Richland County' Now In Pacific War Zone.

Pvt. Walter R. Grabach, a former Mansfielder, now stationed somewhere in the Pacific, writes that the bomber, "Richland County Ohio" is located at his base and has done a marvelous job on its missions.

In a letter to The News-Journal, Grabach says, "Upon inquiring have learned that the bomber so far has done a marvelous job on its missions. We fellows wish that there were more cities such as ours. The ship carries the captions "Cathy" and "Richland County Ohio."

The medium bomber was purchased last fall by the women's division of the Richland County war bond committee. A pursuit ship was bought at the same time.

2,000 Entries Expected For Victory Garden Show Saturday

Mansfield and Richland county gardeners and orchardists were submitting their entry blanks today for the county's first Victory Garden Harvest show, and when the doors open for the festival at 1 p. m. next Saturday nearly 2,000 entries are expected to be on display at the Mansfield Armory.

Final plans for the two-day show at the Armory were completed at a meeting of the show committees last night at civilian defense headquarters, John Kullman is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Entries of garden produce, canned goods, fruits, flowers, and bird houses will be received by Mrs. M. C. Doolittle, 456 West Fourth street, until 9 p. m Friday. Exhibitors have been asked to take their displays to the Armory between 6 and 9:30 p. m. Friday and until 11 a. m. Saturday.

Judges for the show will be W. C. Clever of Lexington, A. C. Evetinder, Mrs. Guy Myers, and Mrs. E. Taylor of the Ashland garden clubs.

The show will be open to the public from 1 to 10:30 p. m. Saturday and 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. Sunday.

Garden clubs in Shelby, Shiloh, Lexington, Bellville, and Butler have indicated they will have booths at the show, and there will be exhibits by the children at the Richland County Children's home and pupils from schools throughout the county.

The Blue Star Mothers' club will serve lunch, ice cream, and soft drinks from a stand in the Armory during both days of the festival. Net proceeds of the show will go into the Richland county quota of the National War Fund.

6,000 Resume School Today, 6,200 More Start Tomorrow

School bells summoned more than 6,000 county and parochial school pupils back to their studies this morning after a three-month summer vacation.

As usual on the first day of the fall term most of the day was spent in organizing classes and getting the school schedule into running order.

Classes began at St. Peter's schools at 8.15 this morning and dismissed at noon. Full schedule will begin tomorrow.

Superintendent Boyd Robinson of the county schools said today the rural and village schools had resumed sessions today fully staffed with the exception of Butler which is still lacking a commercial teacher.

Tomorrow is the opening day for the city schools which will enroll this year an estimated 6,200. Classes will be in session throughout the day with most of the time devoted to outline of schedules and general registration, Superintendent W. L. Miller said.

Agreements have been worked out by school officials and em-

KNOX WARNS OF NEW MENACE FROM U-BOATS

Secretary Indicates Craft Will Use Anti-Aircraft Guns Against Blimps.

New tactics developed by German submarines, Knox said, have reduced the usefulness of blimps and may make helicopters, the use of which is expected, less effective than heretofore hoped.

Now that submarines have begun to fight it out against aircraft and blimps, "anything that hovers" over a submarine is endangered, Knox said.

Asked what the refitting involved, Knox said that they probably were adding to their battery of guns to "counter increased use of aircraft against them."

He warned against the tendency to feel that the submarine menace had been whipped.

"We have no reason to believe that we have disposed of it," he declared. "We will not be completely disposed of the submarine menace until the end of the war. It's been diminished, no question of that; but not eliminated."

Knox said helicopters in their present state of development cannot carry enough bombs and lack sufficient speed to meet the needs of anti-submarine warfare. He said the navy has ordered some helicopters of an experimental type but that they had not yet been delivered.

"We didn't overlook the helicopters for one second," Knox said in answer to criticism that the navy had not taken full advantage of that type of craft.

The secretary said he had nothing he could report on the Marcus island raid because the carrier task force has not yet broken radio silence.

Asked whether there were any top personnel changes pending in the European theater, he said he knew of none but added he assumed the questioned was referring to published reports that Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, would exchange places.

"On that I have no comment," Knox said. "That involves army assignments."

Asked about published reports that Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmell, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack, had demanded early trial on charges involving his command, Knox said:

"No application has reached me. And I'd be the one he'd ask."

ber assault boats and radio landed near the field.

A headquarters statement disclosed that the enemy airfield had not been used by the Japanese for months but can easily be placed into operating condition.

Capture of the airfield effectively helped close the trap on the defenders of Lae and Salamaua.

Their best inland route of flight, the broad Markham valley, was closed Sunday by the paratroopers who dropped from low-flying transports while attack planes in the biggest air formation ever massed in this battle area laid a smokescreen.

"Beautiful! Wonderful!" exclaimed Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a Flying Fortress, as he saw wave on wave of transports unload the 'chutists without a Japanese plane in sight.

This spectacular mission, sprung on the fourth anniversary of Australia's entry into the war, followed the landing of African-seasoned Australians above Lae Saturday from ships escorted by American men of war.

The Japanese, believing the main Allied drive was coming from Salamaua, 18 miles southeast of Lae, were so surprised by the Australian landings they were able to inflict only a few casualties with their airforce.

But the paratroopers' surprise was even greater. Not a plane was lost. The soldiers, classified by the colors of their 'chutes, landed in the head-high grass to form the precise pattern which had been sketched on paper.

General MacArthur, who later said he felt the responsibility of cheering on his men in their first such combat mission with his presence, said on returning to his headquarters:

"We have closed the ring at Lae and Salamaua."

Berlin Reports Landing Attempts

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Berlin radio, quoting an announcement from Japanese headquarters, said today, "the enemy has attempted to land further troops at Kolombangara, in the Solomons.

The Berlin broadcast, recorded by NBC, added that the supposed landing attempts were thrown back with heavy losses in ships, planes and men to the Allies.

This was the first report of landing attempts on the small island just off New Georgia, which already is in Allied hands.

Prices For Farm Produce Show Irregularity.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Ohio farmers received irregular prices for their products during the period from July 15 to Aug. 15 with the greatest increases registered in wheat, corn, apples, hogs, chickens, eggs and milk, the federal-state crop reporting service said today.

The largest declines, the service said, were registered in buckwheat, potatoes, beef cattle, sheep, lambs and wool during the same period.

The price per bushel of wheat increased in August to $1.58 as compared to July's $1.47 and $1.12 for August, 1942.

tured Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt as expecting something big from the Mediterranean soon, it would be only logical that the two leaders would like to examine it together.

From official quarters there was "guidance" that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean, would not accept any Italian peace proposition until the terms were first transmitted to Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill. There has been speculation that when and if the Italians get ready to talk peace, they will talk with Eisenhower first.

The fact that Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill seemed to be waiting for something big did not in any way mitigate the basic allied "unconditional surrender" policy toward the Axis.

New Plant Manual Guides U.S. Troops To Jungle Food

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—While Americans on the home front are consuming fresh vegetables from their Victory gardens, our armed forces in the Pacific are learning to eat the more palatable varieties of weeds and roots.

"Emergency and Poisonous Plants of the Islands of the Pacific," a gourmet's guide to jungle fare, has made it much less hazardous for our forces to pick their own vegetables. The book was written by Dr. E. D. Merrill of Harvard University as a technical manual of the War Department's describing the edible plants of the Pacific islands as well as the poisonous.

When foraging for food, service men can carry this 149-page pocket manual and refer to the English and Latin descriptions of native plants and to the 113 pen-and-ink illustrations.

However, even edible plants may not be consumed entirely. Before taking the first bite, the forager must consult his handbook to see if it is the leaves and stems, the fleshy roots, the fruit or the seeds of the plant that may be eaten.

fields and communications near Naples yesterday while medium bombers hammered airfields at Capua and Grazzanise above Naples.

Moscow announced the capture of Konotop, rail junction-stronghold 115 miles from strategic Kiev, and the killing of 10,000 Germans yesterday in six to 15 mile advances on a 600-mile front. Spearheads were pushed beyond Konotop toward Kiev, while in the south the Soviets were at the gates of the steel center of Stalino.

Slavyansk, Kramatorskaya and other points on the Stalino-Slavyansk railroad were taken, the Russians said, cutting one escape path from Stalino.

Scarcely was the RAF back from the concerted bombing of Munich—in the fourth straight night of big British raids—than Flying Fortresses and Marauders hit at targets in Belgium and France, continuing the patern of Monday raids against war centers and communications in strategic and tactical blows.

Sixteen bombers were missing from the Munich attack and other RAF night operations.

The Fortresses in a 900-mile round-trip left Stuttgart in ruins yesterday in their first attack on that city, knocking down 10 German planes. U. S. medium bombers and RAF planes struck the docks at Boulogne, rail targets at Rouen, and eight German airfields, adding 12 more Nazi planes to the day's toll. U. S. losses were 35 planes, and four British aircraft were missing.

Indicating—beyond these significant air blows—that plans for an invasion from Britain might be well advanced, it was reported on high authority in Washington that General Marshall, U. S. army chief of staff, would become commander-in-chief of the United Nations in the European theater.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill renewed war talks in Wshington amid signs of some great development pending, perhaps a supplication for peace from Italy.

A Swedish traveler said the Allied drive into Italy came as Hitler and his army leaders were quarreling over whether to make a stand along the Po river in Italy or pull back behind the Alps, with the intuitive corporal said to be insisting upon defenses at the Po.

Charge Lifted In 50-Cent Taxi Fare 'Embezzling' Case

An embezzlement charge against Donald E. Stevens, former driver for the DeLuxe Cab company, was withdrawn today by R. N. VanDyne, proprietor of the taxi firm, to permit Stevens to go to the army with a clear record. He is scheduled for induction tomorrow.

VanDyne charged Stevens with embezzling 50 cents due him from a fare collected from a passenger and last week agreed to drop the charge if Stevens would pay the $11 court costs and $3.35 he owed VanDyne. Stevens refused to pay the costs, but the amount of the costs was turned over to municipal court attaches by City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner who declined to say who had put up the money. Atty. George W. Biddle, Stevens attorney, also refused to say who had paid the costs. He said, however, that it was neither Stevens nor VanDyne.

The case had been scheduled for hearing this morning before a jury in municipal court. If the jury had been called, it would have been the first jury trial in the court in nearly 10 years.

CHAPTER XV

From his seat by a window Bob saw Sugg and Miss Broderick stroll through the dusk. She waved to him as they passed.

"That boy doesn't like me," Sugg mentioned. "He bristles and gets insolent when we meet."

The girl showed surprise. "Are you sure? Why wouldn't he like you, since you saved his life the other day?"

Sugg smiled at her. "Can't you guess why not?"

"You don't mean—?"

She did not finish the sentence. A wave of pink beat into her cheeks.

"That's exactly what I mean. A cat may look at a king, you know."

"Even if you are right," she protested, her eyes meeting his bold possessive gaze, "that wouldn't be any reason for disliking you, after what you did for him. Bob is a nice boy. He isn't mean-spirited. Look how far he went to help Cle Hightower."

"I've wondered about that," he replied. "Something queer there. He is accused of being one of the train robbers."

"He isn't one of them," she flung out indignantly. "How can anyone say that, when he was wounded fighting the bandits?"

"I didn't say he was one. I said he was accused of it." He turned his frank smile on her. "But that isn't proof he is guilty. I have been accused of being in it myself."

"You!" She pulled up and stared at him. "Whoever said that?"

"Your friend Lee. He didn't quite say so in as many words, but he hinted at it."

Her astonished eyes held his. "You must be mistaken, Hi. He couldn't have said that, unless he has gone crazy."

"Ask your father. I went in to tell him I was glad his wound was no worse, and he insulted me from the moment I stepped into the room until I left."

"Just what did he say?" she asked.

"Insinuations. I'm not mistaken. The man is a fool. He has let his jealousy get out of hand."

Willie May was silent. She resolved to ask her father what had been said.

On the outskirts of town they turned into a path known as Lover's Lane. Near the end of it a brook crossed the walk, and there were stepping stones upon which they trod to avoid wetting the feet. Sugg gave her a hand. When they were on the far side he held fast to it and looked down into her eyes. She felt an excitement beating in her throat. The nearness of this man always sent a wave of heat into her breast and made her weak. He was intensely masculine. He kissed her and something magnetic drew her to him, her soft body vibrant and responsive. She was no longer the arrogant young queen of the J A B. She was just a girl, weak and willing, in the arms of a lover.

Broderick was on the porch when she and Sugg returned. The friendship of these two disturbed him. When the young man left, the cattleman's eyes followed him, a wide-shouldered flatbacked fellow with a strong easy stride. He is a fighter, but J. A. guessed not a generous one. The thin tight mouth and the hard eyes issued a warning. The woman he married would not be a free agent.

Abruptly Broderick asked "Are you in love with Hiram Sugg?"

She answered without evasion, "I think so—very much."

He was fumbling for words to tell her his feelings when she questioned him. "Did Bob Lee tell Hiram that he thought him one of the Santa Fe train robbers?"

Her father took his time to answer. "No, he didn't go that far."

"What do you mean that far? Did he say anything of the kind?" Her voice was sharp and thin.

Again Broderick chose his words carefully. "Bob thinks he is too friendly with the Hickorys."

"Bob had better mind his own business."

"He is a fine boy." Broderick shifted the conversation from Lee to Sugg. "I hope you know what you're doing, honey. Hiram is a hard man. There isn't any give to him. The girl who marries him will have to do as he says. You won't always like that."

"You told me once that marriage is a compromise."

"Not with Hiram Sugg. He won't do any compromising. There's another thing, honey. Are you sure about him. I don't mean about his feeling for you. I mean other things. Has it ever seemed to you that he is too anxious to make money—to get along?"

"Doesn't everybody want to do that? Don't you?"

"Yes. The question is how far a man will go to do it. To become a big man isn't the most important thing in life. One has to stay kind and decent. He has to keep his self-respect, has to live honestly."

Doubts had run through the mind of Willie May, but she did not intend to listen to them voiced by others.

"Hiram is a business man and not a rancher," she said. "He doesn't look at things the way you do. He is a big man and I believe in him. It's wrong of a boy like Bob Lee, a cowboy, to set you against Hiram. I'll tell him so, too."

Nothing more on the subject was said then but J. A. brought it up next morning at breakfast. He held a week-old copy of the Globe-Democrat. Willie May noticed that he squirmed and she caught his eye looking at her over the top of the paper.

He cleared his throat. "I want to talk to you, honey," he finally said. "About Hiram Sugg."

"You're not trying to get rid of me, are you?"

"I don't aim to hurt yore feelings, honey-bug. But I talked with Bob Lee again after I left you last night. He's mighty sure that Hiram was in the Hickory camp the night he came on it. The man had his back to him, but he would swear he was Sugg."

"He better have his eyes examined," the girl retorted. "I'm surprised you would repeat what he said, and I don't want to hear any more."

Eyes sparkling with anger, she got up from her chair and walked from the room.

At the depot an hour later she greeted Bob stiffly. On the train she ignored him until her father left them to go into the smoking car for a cigar.

When she spoke it was with deceptive mildness. "Tell me about your trip—all your adventures."

Bob was glad that she had relaxed. "Not much to tell," he said. "I ran across that mover Todd at Tecumseh. The Hickorys were there, too."

"You met them?"

"Yes. At the hotel. I figured they were up to some meanness and followed them past Guthrie a-ways."

"You once told me you weren't looking for trouble with them."

"I wasn't, but I wanted to get something on them to clear Cle Hightower."

Willie May still showed innocent interest. "You had some trouble with them at Tecumseh, didn't you?"

"Some. They kinda crowded me."

"How?"

He told her briefly what had occurred at the hotel.

"So Hiram kept them from shooting you."

"Yes. They had their guns out and were ready to blaze away, but he stood up to them and they held their fire."

"He saved your life?"

"I reckon maybe he did."

"Naturally you feel grateful to him."

"I was mighty glad he was there."

"And after he saved your life you go sneaking around accusing him of being a thief," she sneered."

Lee was trapped. He was barred from offering his defense by the girl's love for Sugg. As Broderick had told him, he had no proof to offer. He could not tell Willie May that Sugg's having his life at Tecumseh helped the man in his mind. The man had protected him only because it would be fatal to their enterprise to have law officers called in then. Bob could remember his very words:

"None of us want sherriffs and marshalls buzzing around now, do we? Call it off. For this time anyhow." He had not been talking in behalf of Bob. He had been appealing to them not to spoil the chance of a successful holdup by brushing out an unimportant range rider.

But Bob realized that opinions alone would not hold with a girl in love. "I'll have to let it go that way, I reckon," he said.

She rose from the seat and looked down at him, anger flushing her face. "You are not only blackly ungrateful. You are one of those interfering fools who know more than anybody else and are always right."

Bob made no denial.

MISS MARGARET CROWL HAS SUNDAY CEREMONY

Mansfielder Becomes Bride of Wesley Krutsinger of Illinois In Open Service Held at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

THE LOVELY WEDDING of Miss Margaret Elaine Crowl and Melvin Wesley Krutsinger took place Sunday afternoon at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 3 o'clock. Rev. Peter Young of the Congregational church read the nuptial service.

Miss Crowl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clay E. Crowl, 236 Bartley avenue. Mr. Krutsinger's mother is Mrs. Susan Ellen Krutsinger of Arthur, Ill.

Miss Crowl wore a lovely white silk jersey street length frock, with white accessories and a white net shoulder length veil. She carried an old lace handkerchief and a Kaferette bouquet of gardenias and Briarcliffe roses.

Miss Billie McQuillen, close friend of the bride, was her only attendant. She chose a light blue two piece dress of crepe, with which she wore brown accessories. Her bouquet was made up of yellow Roosevelt roses.

Best man for Mr. Krutsinger was Wallace C. Crowl, brother of the bride. Ushers were Perry H. Millikin and David Husung.

Mrs. Crowl attended her daughter's wedding in an aqua two piece crepe dress, with black accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of gardenias.

Preceding the ceremony, a half hour's program of organ music was played by Mrs. Rhea Twitchell. Mrs. Thurza Hazeltine sang "Through the Years," by Vincent Youmans and "Because," by D'Hardelot.

The altar to which Mr. Crowl escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage was banked with beauty baskets of glads, asters and roses. Palms and tapers in two seven branched candelabra completed the setting.

When the newlyweds left for a wedding trip, the new Mrs. Krutsinger was wearing a gray crepe frock with navy, blue and fuschia accessories. They will be at home after Sept. 8, at 516 Marion avenue.

The former Miss Crowl is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school. She is employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Mr. Kurtsinger graduated from Arthur township school and attended Charleston Teachers college in Illinois. He is a representative of the Holland Furnace company.

Guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Crowl of Shiloh, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Crowl of Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allen of Toledo and Richard Sparks of the United States Army.

Friday evening, following the rehearsal, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, for about 40 people. Flowers decorated the home. The refreshment table was centered with a large wedding cake, centered with a bride and groom. Appointments were in white and silver.

Weds Officer

The bride of Staff Sgt. Richard Means, 363 Wheatrow avenue, the former Miss Valerie Ann Fuderer, is shown here. The couple exchanged vows Aug. 3 at Myrtle Beach, S. C. Miss Fuderer graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and Mansfield Business college. Sgt. and Mrs. Means will make their home at Myrtle Beach, while Sgt. Means is stationed there.

Miss Valmore To Wed Naval Cadet

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Valmore of Lakewood, formerly of this city, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Louise Valmore, to Cadet Robert L. Heffelfinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Heffelfinger of Big Prairie.

Miss Valmore is a sophomore at Iowa State college and is a member of the Delta Zeta sorority. Mr. Heffelfinger, who is a naval air cadet, is now attending pre-flight school at St. Mary's college in California.

NUPTIAL SERVICE READ IN MT. GILEAD CHURCH

Eugene Banks Takes Dorothy Ann Morse As Bride In September 3 Ceremony; Parents of Bride Give Wedding Reception.

MR. AND MRS. ROY MORSE of Mt. Gilead are today announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Ann Morse, to Eugene Banks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Banks of Bellville.

The quiet single ring service was read Friday, Sept. 3, in the parsonage of the Methodist church in Mt. Gilead. Rev. Rush officiated.

Attendants for the bride were Miss June Morse and Miss Bernandine Banks. Wilber Smith and William Dickson were attendants for Mr. Banks.

The bride was attired in a white gabardine suit, with which she wore light blue accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses.

Miss Morse wore a rose frock with beige accessories and a red rose corsage. A blue dress was worn by Miss Banks, who completed her ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception for the wedding party, close friends and relatives was given at the home of the bride's parents. The refreshment table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom.

For traveling, the new Mrs. Banks wore an aqua suit with beige accessories. After a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Galion.

Mrs. Banks is employed at the North Electric Manufacturing company at Galion. Mr. Banks is an employe of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. Both are graduates of the Bellville high school.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

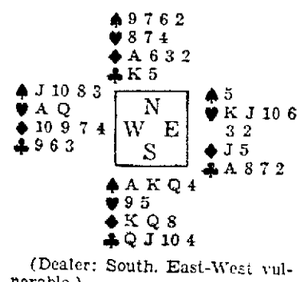
"The Authority on Authorities"

EARLY OR NEVER

Some plays have a chance to work if you employ them at the earliest possible stage, before the defenders have a line on what is the situation. Postponing them can reveal just what you are trying to do, so that you haven't a chance in the world to get away with it. In the beginning you may be able to create an illusion which would be impossible later on.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

Suppose you were sitting in the East and saw nothing but your own hand and the dummy. If your partner led the diamond 4, you played the J and South won with the K, and then South led the club 4 to the K. You would, of course, win it with the A, and then would ponder the question of your return. Wouldn't it look very much to you as if he was getting ready to ruff one or more clubs in the dummy?

You would be torn between the idea of a heart return up to those weak cards in the dummy, and a trump in order to cut down his ruffing ability. As it turns out, if you sent back a trump, he would make his contract, taking three rounds of trumps, discarding two hearts from dummy on clubs, the last of which would be ruffed by your partner. The declarer could then ruff one of his hearts and so would lose only three tricks, one in each suit except diamonds.

But the actual declarer on this deal did not make that effort. After winning the diamond lead, he scored two trumps to disclose the bad break, then led a club to the K and A. There was no sane lead available now to East except a heart, so that declarer was beaten, with two tricks in that suit, plus one in spades and one in clubs.

There was nothing certain about the early club lead causing East to try a trump return, but at least South should have made the effort as a possible precaution against a bad trump break.

Tomorrow's Problem.

What is correct play of this deal at 5-Clubs by South after West leads the spade K and Q?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I held out my hand, and the man named Crump put into it the flimsy piece of paper which he said had a "queer sort of drawing" on it. I took one searching look at it, then held it out to Dicky.

"Look!" I exclaimed breathlessly. "It's a key, and a lock!"

He scrutinized the drawing carefully.

"Yes," he said at last. "You're right. But there's no writing on it. Yes, there is, too! Clever girl! She's put an initial M on each end of the key. You'd hardly notice it, or did you?"

"Yes, I saw them," I said, a bit faintly.

"I'd have laid a sizeable wager you did!" my husband retorted. Then he glanced significantly at the enclosure from Marion which I still held in my hand and I rapidly unfolded it and read its contents. For several seconds I kept my eyes fixed upon it, pretending to be still reading it, but in reality planning what was best to do.

Finally I raised my eyes to Dicky's.

"There is nothing in this which will necessitate our taking up any more of Mr. Crump's time," I said. "But—I would like to ask a great favor of you," I went on, turning to the man.

He twisted the hat he held in his hands in embarrassed fashion. "Anything you want, Ma'am," he said.

"If you see that woman come into the restaurant again can you telephone me here before you serve her."

"Yes, Ma'am, I can manage that," he said, while Dicky interjected a surprised "Here? To this hotel?" obviously remembering Milner's listening posts. But I lifted a signaling finger in my husband's direction, and he fell silent.

Crump Gets Instruction.

"Please remember not to say anything except what I tell you," I went on earnestly. "Do not give any indication where you are. If I answer the telephone, say: 'This is Mr. Crump, Mrs. Graham. That order of lace is ready for you. It has just come in.' If some one else answers the telephone, and I am not here say 'Will you please tell Mrs. Graham that Mr. Crump called and says that her order of lace is ready? It has just come in.' Would you like to write that down?"

"No, Ma'am." A faint smile touched his lips. "I'm used to remembering orders. I'm to tell you or anyone who answers that your order of lace is ready, and has just come in. I'll do that the minute I see her come in the door."

"Thank you," I said, and then hesitatingly he spoke again:

"I can't help but see, Ma'am, that the young lady means a lot to you. Suppose I see her some place else, or run across something I think you ought to know—?"

"Telephone me at once, telling me there's something gone wrong with my order and that you'd like to see me. You either can come here, or name an address where I can see you. But if it's that restaurant where you saw our friend, don't name it, simply call it your office."

"I understand," he said, "and I'll keep my eyes open. Now, is there anything else I can do for you, for if there isn't, I ought to be getting back."

Thanks Crump.

"No, indeed," I assured him, "and thank you so much for a wonderful service."

"Then I'll say goodbye, Ma'am," he said with a stiff little bow.

"Goodbye," I answered, as Dicky took him to the door, shook hands with him cordially, and saw him into the corridor. Then, coming back, he slumped into a chair opposite me.

"What do you know—" he began, but he never finished the sentence, for from the bedroom came a rush of feet, and Ronald, whitefaced and with eyes almost crazed with excitement, came up to me and grasped my shoulder with strong clutching hands.

"Now you'll believe me!" he exclaimed. "It was Marion I saw!" And what are we waiting here for? Why aren't we going after her?"

Katharine and my father had followed him into the room, but at his outburst, I saw my kinswoman slip back into the bedroom, and guessed her errand. Then Dicky crossed to me, and took hold of the boy's hands.

"You are hurting Aunt Madge, Ronald," he said in quiet, soothing tones, "and are doing Marion no good. Come over here and sit down, and let's talk things over."

The boy released me quickly with a contrite, mumble, "Sorry Aunt Madge!" But he faced Dicky stormily.

"I haven't time to talk," he cried. "I'm going down to that place and scout around there until I find Marion, and nobody's going to stop me!"

He rushed for the door. My father's voice sounded in quiet but grim command.

"Take him, Richard!" he said.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Sept. 8.

The astral influences ruling this day must be interpreted as adverse or conflicting. There is a sign of fair expansion in business or finance, with some increase of credit or personal prestige, while at the same time there are omens of trickery, duplicity, or other undercover pitfalls, luring to subtle intrigues or to tactics wanting in prudence, integrity and good faith. Guard against such lurking snares and schemes, and make a stand on fairness and rigid probity, and there will be moderate rewards with definite personal satisfaction and appreciation. Also safeguard domestic and affectional ties against loss or sinister intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which their own upright and honest purpose, objectives and conduct may determine the status of their progress, success and personal happines and popularity. There are indications of subtle snares, sinister intrigues and illicit entanglements which may undermine the best of intentions unless strict integrity and honesty of purpose, sustained by sound principle, be brought to bear on questionable circumstances. These may react on the social, domestic or affectional life with great sorrow, loss or regret unless strict regard for truth, honor and straight-forwardness be rightly exercised.

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy . . . it helps keep the skin soft and pliable . . . thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin . . . for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Mother's Friend

Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Just ask any druggist for Mother's Friend—the skin lubricant. Try it tonight.

Plan Service In Tucson, Arizona

Mr. and Mrs. J. Weingartner, 74 Bowman street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Katherine, to Eldon McQuate, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. McQuate of Shiloh.

Although a definite date has not been set, the wedding will take place sometime in the fall in Tucson, Ariz. The couple will make their home in Phoenix, Ariz.

Miss Weingartner attended Mansfield Senior high school and graduated from the Lamson Business college in Phoenix.

Mr. McQuate, a graduate of Shiloh, attended New Mexico College of Mining.

IN BUYING FRUITS

This is what to look for in buying fruits: Red apples should be distinctly red, yellow apples definitely yellow. Berries are best when uniform in size, not green, not mouldy. Skin of ripe bananas is flecked with brown. Citrus fruits should be firm and springy to the touch — thick-skinned varieties often have the most juice. Vine-ripened melons can be spotted by the smooth, only slightly sunken scar at point where melon was attached to the vine.

Predicts 1943 as 'Epidemic Year' For Paralysis

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis predicts in its monthly publication that 1943 may be "one of the major epidemic years for infantile paralysis" and that California, Texas and Oklahoma will be the most severely affected states.

Warning that each year's peak is not reached until mid-August to mid-September, the Foundation says that "analysis at the end of the first 26 weeks of the year shows the total number of cases to be higher than for any of the past 12 years, excepting 1934."

During the first six months, 1,004 cases were reported from 42 states as compared for an average over the corresponding period for the last 10 years of 841.

California reports 351 cases, Texas 230 and Oklahoma, although reporting only 33 through June, has shown a "marked increase" since then, according to the article.

Dr. John L. Lavan, director of research for the Foundation, is visiting the Western epidemic areas.

CATCH RATS

LONDON—(INS)—British women have done a lot for the war effort but today they reached the limit. Now they are catching rats in order to conserve the food that the rodent pilferers eat or destroy. Recently two girls, using scientific methods, killed between 800 and 1,000 rats in a fortnight.

Storing Victory Garden Pumpkins and Squash for Winter Use.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released By Central Press Assn.

If, in memory of boyhood days on Granddad's farm, you look forward to storing pumpkins and squash from your Victory garden for winter use, here are a few pointers for the protection of your produce.

Pumpkins and squash stored for winter use should be harvested with care. Many believe that the hard shell, especially upon the squash and edible pumpkins used as squash, protects the fruit from damage. Any break in the shell or outer tissue may permit rots to enter and quick decay soon follows, particularly if the fruits are improperly stored.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, pumpkins and squash should be cut from the vine with the stem firmly attached to the fruit.

Careful handling for storage purposes is also important. Squash and pumpkins should be cured before final storage and not allowed to freeze. A temperature of 75 to 85 degrees for 10 days or two weeks does the curing, while a dry atmosphere and a 50 to 60 degrees temperature is best for storage.

It is possible to store pumpkins and squash in the furnace heated basement for several months. Store upon racks, as illustrated, or in well ventilated crates off the floor and away from corners, for air circulation is important.

BEST TO KEEP SERVICE DATA

Officer Says That It May Be Needed Some Day For Compensation.

(By International News Service)

DENVER—Now is the time for families back home to help men and women in the armed services to complete military records for the future compensation claims, according to Goddard Shackelford, state service officer. Forethought now will be of great value in years to come, he said.

"There are thousands of deserving veterans of World War 1 who are unable to offer evidence of service-connected disability to entitle them to compensation," Mr. Shackelford pointed out. "This is because illness or injury seemed minor at the time, although the ultimate results were serious and no record is available.

"Army 'goldbrickers' have had no difficulty in getting their claims through the veterans' bureau. They are the fellows who preferred to report at sick call, rather than to perform routine ruties. Records of the unit medical officers, on file in Washington, have aided many of these fellows to draw compensation."

The most ambitious soldiers, likely to be the most efficient, are least likely to provide medical records, Shackelford said.

"Families of service men can aid future claimants by preserving letters telling of illness or accident—particularly if they have not required hospitalization. Many claims have been granted because oldtime letters to the folks back home have provided the necessary evidence."

If Johnny writes that he and Pete and Harry were in a jeep which overturned, shaking them up but not requiring hospital treatment, ask Johnny to be more explicit. Mr. Shackelford advised. Get the full names, and serial numbers, if possible, of Pete and Harry, who may be future witnesses.

Already he has been called upon to file claims for widows and children in the present war, Mr. Shackelford says. Evidence is comparatively easy to get at this time, but 20 or 30 years hence it will be more difficult.

In addition to being state service officer, Mr. Shackelford performs the same duties for the American Legion, and the D. A. V., presenting claims for veterans and veterans' families of former wars.

MARINES LIST FAVORITE LOOT

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC—(U.P.)—American homes after this war are scheduled for a new decorative motif if the loot captured by Marines on Guadalcanal is any indication.

Japanese Samurai swords, sniper rifles or Japanese flags may adorn simple midwestern farmhouses and city mansions alike, taking the place of the deer heads of today.

American Marines, recuperating in a hospital here after action in the Solomons, have drawn a "hit parade" of Japanese souvenirs. Number one on the list is a Samurai sword, said to have belonged to Premier Tojo's son. Next are the gem-encrusted, gold-hilted sabers carried by Japanese officers, valued at more than $100 each.

Japanese flags of all kinds, a five-shot, .22 caliber pistol with a three-inch barrel somewhat resembling an American six-shooter, sniper rifles and equipment are all considered good souvenirs.

The lady next door thinks she is lucky. She got her coat back from the dry cleaners and it was still in style.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Golfers are the c-r-r-aziest people.

Not for anything you'd care to mention would I get out and walk five miles in the rain, anything, that is, except—.

Jim Anderson and I had a tournament match to play Sunday noon at Coolridge, and come rain and high water we were determined to play it.

It wasn't what you'd call fun.

We were heading into a terrific wind on the first and fourth holes, the turf was mushy, and the rain came down intermittently from a sprinkle to a downpour. And we plowed on

You couldn't play the kind of golf in that weather that you do ordinarily, which gave me the happy thought that a guy should play in the rain more often, so he would be used to it when he had to play in the rain.

Just forget that happy thought. So pood out I was come Monday morning I don't care if I never play again with the wind and the rain in my hair.

In spite of mounting scores (mine went up five strokes, and Jim's did likewise) we had our moments of unconsciously brilliant golf.

There was No. 4 on the first round. We are lying even; hole high, and I am back of the trap to the right and Jim is five feet off the green to the left.

My chip sails over the trap, settles down on the green and rolls 30 feet up to the side of the cup, stopping two inches away. Jim chips over the five feet of apron, rolls 25 feet up to the can, and in. Professionals could have done no better.

And there was No 3 on the second round

Jim drives the green, a terrific clout on a wet day when there's no roll to help He was all ready, he admitted, to mark that one down for his side, two putts and a par

My approach, from 75 yards out, is high and on the pin all the way. It splashes on the green bounces up hits the peg and drops dead, five inches away We halve the hole

It all goes to show you, we agreed, what a guy can do with his eyes closed

* * *

Fortunately I win the match, 4 and 3.

And I mean fortunately, because Jim took all three of those remaining holes.

Indians Again In 2nd Place

Take Double Victory From St. Louis.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Cleveland's Indians are back in second place today by the margin of one percentage point, the result of twin holiday victories fashioned at the expense of three former Clevelanders now wearing St. Louis Browns togs.

The Indians won the opener 3-2 in 10 innings, after delay of more than an hour caused by weather, and then came back in the nightcap to win 2-0 in five innings before weather curtailed the game.

* * *

Al Milnar, traded to the Browns two weeks ago, relieved former Cleveland sandlotter Steve Sundra in the first game and was charged with the loss Denny Galehouse, a former Indian flinger, was the nightcap victim.

Jim Bagby won his 14th victory against 12 losses in the first game, and Vernon Kennedy copped the afterpiece.

The Indians tallied in the first inning of the opener, on singles by Oris Hockett, Roy Cullenbine and Mickey Rocco, and added another in the fourth on singles by Rocco and Lou Boudreau, a sacrifice by Ray Mack and a long fly by Gene Desautels.

Milnar came to the mound in the seventh and held his former mates in check for three innings. In the 10th however, Lou Boudreau singled, went to third on Ray Mack's one-bagger and dashed home on Desautels' long fly, ending the game.

* * *

Desautels scored the first Redskin run in the second game when he singled, advanced on Kennedy's sacrifice and was scored by Russ Peters' blow. The second tally was manufactured on a double by Jeff Heath a sacrifice by Rocco and a squeeze bunt by Boudreau

The Indians are idle today and Wednesday.

REDS WIN TWO

CHICAGO — (AP)— The Cincinnati Reds began a three-day rest period today prior to engaging the Pittsburgh Pirates at Cincinnati in a twilight-night doubleheader Friday.

In yesterday's doubleheader against the Cubs, the Reds took both games, 10-1 and 3-1.

The Reds gave 25,260 Chicago fans little to cheer about in the opener as Elmer Riddle allowed but eight hits

Riddle racked up his 18th victory of the season at the expense of Lon Warneke, Hank Wyse and Johnny Burrows

In the nightcap, the Reds tied the score at one all in the ninth inning. Dain Clay opened the inning by beating out a bunt. Woody Williams, who hit safely in 10 consecutive times at bat, sacrificed him to second. Estel Crabtree hit a slow roller, and Clay, who reached third on Haas' single, scored the tying run.

In the 10th Eddie Miller reached second base safely on Lennie Merullo's two-base wild throw Ray Mueller hit a pop fly to short right field and when Stu Martin, Bill Nicholson and Paul Cavarretta crashed into each other in attempting to field the ball, Miller scored and Mueller tagged up at third A wild pitch allowed Mueller to score

ALL-TIME MUTUEL BETTING RECORD SET

CHICAGO —(INS)— Washington park officials today reported an all-time record high single-day mutuel handle for Chicago tracks of $1,440,634 in yesterday's closing program, featured by the $5,000-added Washington park handicap.

The highest previous figure was on classic day at Arlington park in 1930 when $1,338,803 went through the mutuel machines.

Possum Leads Tourney List

Prize Donors Increase For County Golf Test.

Up to the holiday week-end Coolridge had only one entry, Hugo Brannon, and so did Westbrook, Jim Orr Unattached entries were received from Gene Zediker, last year's Westbrook champion, and Clayton Knoll while entering from the U S Army is Nick Linster, home on 15-day furlough

Possum's entry is expected to double the present list, while top-flight golfers from Coolridge and Westbrook likely will come in with a full representation. Entries must be filed with Jimmy Morgan by Thursday midnight, in order that tee-time pairings for the 36-hole test can be made in plenty of time.

Some of those expected from Coolridge include Joe Mayer, defending champion, Matz Fisher, Ray Malaska, Frank Jocha, Joe Kasper, Frank Cipris, Joe Zimmerman, Pete Marcoff, Dick Gaubatz, Pete Schemine, and Bob Young.

Shelby's usual contribution to the entry list also is still to be heard from

In addition to the merchants listed in Sunday's paper as donating prizes to the event, prizes have been given by Al's Kicks, Brooks-Clothiers Possum Run Golf club, Shaw's Jewelers, Yuncker Sports, Ritter's, Siegenthaler's, Colony Bowling alleys, Goldsmith's, Sam Fox, Ringside, Schmutzler's Southern hotel, Mansfield Tire, and Balyeat Mattress company.

Fans Couldn't See Joe, So---

Many soldiers in the army hospital at Camp Edwards, Mass., couldn't join their buddies in watching Sergt. Joe Louis fight in an exhibition bout, but the heavyweight champ saw to it that they didn't miss anything. Joe is pictured above with Pvt. Joseph Kuller of New York as the champ visited patients in the hospital.

Sport Roundup

NEW YORK —(AP)— Col. Russ Newland, who called the turn on Hank Armstrong's retirement long before Henry announced it himself, warns one and all not to be too confident that Lou Nova will remain on the fistic shelf . . . New York football writers won't start their weekly meetings this season until much later than usual because of a speaker shortage . . . Columbia is the only big college about town that has a team and the usually articulate Lou Little still hasn't regained full use of his voice.

Al Del Greco, the Hackensack, N. J, sports scribe, tell this one about the time Sgt. Vic Ghezzi and Dick Metz played golf on New Jersey's famous Pine Valley course . . . Ghezzi, who had been there before, warned Metz to get a caddie who really knew the course, but Metz insisted he only needed a score card to tell him the yardage . . . When they started, Metz looked at his card and whaled away for the pin while Ghezzi, after asking his caddie's advice, kept getting into difficulty hole after hole. It went that way with Dick getting birdies and pars and Vic getting nothing but trouble . . . Finally Ghezzi hollered: "Give me that card. I'm going to try that system myself . . ." He grabbed the card and looked—It was for a course in Connecticut that Metz had played the day before.

Don Donaghey, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin: "Unfortunately men are known by the teams they play on socially and a ball player who appeared in public with a jockey would have a tough time explaining to Judge Landis that he was offering to pay the boy's way through college if he would give up his sinful horseback riding."

Joe Hunt Captures Net Title

Heat and Illness Stop Jack Kramer.

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y.—(AP)—It was with a good many qualms that the United States Lawn Tennis Association decided to go through with its second wartime championship tournament. At the conclusion it was agreed that the only thing really wrong with the event was the finish of the most important match.

* * *

The end was marred when Jack Kramer, the Los Angeles coast guardsman, virtually collapsed under the double stress of heat and illness and Lieut. Joe Hunt of the navy went on to a 6-3, 6-8, 10-8, 6-0 triumph in the men's singles final.

Kramer suffered on attack of intestinal flu a few days ago and lost 20 pounds.

Hunt, the seventh-seeded player who conquered top-seeded Frankie Parker, fourth-ranked William Taubert and third-seeded Kramer in successive matches, probably was as effective as he was in 1940, when he earned the No 4 national ranking.

The titles in the other divisions were decided according to form. On Sunday Pauline Betz of Los Angeles won the women's title for the second year and Kramer and Parker took the men's doubles crown.

* * *

Yesterday, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., singles runner-up, and Margaret Osborne of San Francisco teamed to win the women's doubles from Miss Betz and Doris Hart Miss Osborne then teamed with Talbert to beat Miss Betz and Segura in the mixed doubles final.

Musial, Appling Still Set Pace

NEW YORK —(AP)— Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox still are setting the batting pace in the major leagues.

Musial's average remained exactly what it was last Tuesday, .353, and Billy Herman of Brooklyn, holding persistently to second place, slipped just two points to .332.

* * *

In the American league Appling's average skidded six points to 331 but his only dangerous challenger, Dick Wakefield of Detroit, also subsided five points to 321 to preserve their same relative positions.

Julius Franks Lost To Wolves

CHICAGO—(AP)—Lineman Julius Franks is lost to Michigan's football team for the season, and even with potential All-Americans reportedly 12 deep in the Wolverine camp this news is creating consternation.

* * *

Coach Fritz Crisler revealed that the star guard was confined to the university hospital because of an undiagnosed illness and would not be available this fall.

* * *

The Wolverines open their season a week from Saturday against Camp Grant, which clashes with Illinois Saturday at Champaign in the official opener of the midwest "college" grid season.

Stockholder

Disclosed as one of the stockholders of the Philadelphia Phillies ($5,000 worth), George D. Widener, wealthy turf figure and president of Belmont Park, N. Y., race track, is thrust into the sports headlines because of a reported investigation by Commissioner K. M. Landis of baseball. Landis always has frowned on anyone attempting to mix baseball with racing. Widener, who has only seen two baseball games in his entire life, says that "I have absolutely no intention of giving up my Philadelphia stock." Widener is shown.

Demaret, And Wood Cop Cup

Pass Nelson and McSpaden In Final 36-Hole Test.

MINNEAPOLIS— (AP)—Craig Wood and Jimmy Demaret held the $1,200 first prize in the Golden valley invitational golf tournament today after putting on a whirlwind finish to pass Byron Nelson and Harold (Jug) McSpaden in the last 36 holes yesterday.

Wood and Demaret moved into the lead when they beat Bill Kaiser and Johnny Revolta, 8 up in the morning. They clinched their title by posting a best-ball 67 to defeat Harry Cooper and Chick Harbert in the afternoon.

Nelson and McSpaden were thwarted in their bid to regain the lead by the fine putting of Willie Goggin and Tony Penna. Three down at the end of the first afternoon nine, Goggin and Penna posted six birdies in the last nine holes to defeat the second-place pair.

Another spectacular finish enabled Lloyd Mangrum and Sammy Byrd to down Buck White and Ky Laffoon, 3 up, and leapfrog into third place. Final standings: Wood-Demaret, plus 12; Nelson-McSpaden, plus 9, Mangrum-Byrd, plus 7, Turnesa-Turnesa, zero, Cooper-Harbert, minus 4, Kaiser-Revolta, minus 6, White-Laffoon, minus 7; Goggin-Penna, minus 11.

OHIOAN LOSES

NEWARK, N. J.—(AP)—Cleo McNeil, 150, of Canton, O., lost an eight-round decision to Vern Patterson of Paterson in a boxing match here last night. Patterson weighed 150¾.

Records Set for Holiday

Red Rookie Raps Ten Straight Bingles.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

LABOR day, traditionally a big day for the major leagues, passed with nothing more than modest notice from the fans this year but the players and clubs concerned did their utmost to provide excitement for the 122,561 spectators who turned out at seven parks.

At Chicago Woody Williams, a reserve infielder for the Cincinnati Reds tied the National league record for consecutive hits, 10, by making five in the first game and another on his first time up in the nightcap to go with four he had at St. Louis Sunday.

With this momentum the Reds whipped the Cubs twice 10-1 and 3-1, the latter game going 10 innings.

The world champion Cardinals crushed the Pittsburgh Pirates twice 3-2 and 6-2 as Alpha Brazle pitched seven-hit ball and Harry Brecheen came up with a four-hitter.

In the first of these games at St. Louis Ray Sanders, first baseman for the Redbirds, was struck on the head by a batted ball and was taken to a hospital although his injuries later were said not to appear serious.

At Brooklyn before the largest throng of the day, 28,638 paid, the Dodgers ran their winning streak to 10 games by winning the first half of a doubleheader with the Boston Braves, 7-3. The Braves took the second game, 3-2.

Stanley (Frenchy) Bordagaray, who has been alternating between infield and outfield assignments, was hit on the head by a ball pitched by Rookie Armand Cardoni and was taken to a hospital for observation, although apparently not badly hurt.

Babe Dahlgren, who worked two innings as a catcher in the first game at the Polo Grounds in New York, hit a two-run homer in the 11th inning of the second game to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-1 decision over the Giants after New York had bagged the opener 6-3.

In the American league, the New York Yankees were walloped 11-2 in the first game of a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Athletics but they rebounded with an 11-4 triumph in the second game.

The Boston Red Sox swept a doubleheader from the Washington Senators 5-1 on Tex Hughson's four-hit hurling and 4-1 on Bobby Doerr's three-run homer in the sixth.

Cleveland clipped the St. Louis Browns twice 3-2 in 10 innings and 2-0 in five frames with weather interfering in both games.

The same elements caused postponement of the scheduled doubleheader at Detroit and as the result the Tigers will entertain the Chicago White Sox in two games today, the only games on the calendar.

NAPOLEON LOSES

CLEVELAND—(AP)— Cleveland American Monorail beat Napoleon (O) Rausch Roofers, 4-0, and Cincinnati Coca Cola shut out Buffalo Draper Roofers, 3-0, in the East Central regional softball tournament yesterday. In the women's division, Dayton Sucher Packers trounced Cincinnati Gruen Watch, 8-0.

HULL PROMISES STUDY OF PLAN FOR ALLIANCE

Says Churchill Proposal To Get Consideration, Leaders Talk Common Citizenship.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today said, in effect, that the United States government will give the greatest consideration to British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's suggestion for an Anglo-American alliance after this war.

Commenting on Churchill's speech at Harvard university, yesterday, Hull said that anything the British prime minister says on international relations is of the greatest interest to this country and this government and will receive corresponding consideration. Hull added this definitely includes Churchill's statement of yesterday.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill today resumed their post-war planning conferences at the White House on a theme of common citizenship between the United States and Great Britain, and a system of collective military security to prevent the reappearance of would-be world conquerors.

The British premier returned to Washington following his trip to Harvard university, where he was given an honorary degree, to round out a full month of activities on this side of the Atlantic.

Mr. Churchill's continued presence in Washington gave rise to reports today that he and the president anticipate an early development in the war of world-shaking importance.

It was evident that the subject of post-war planning, of the settlements after a full Allied victory is won, and of the setting up of a world order afterwards that will prevent the rise again of destructive forces of Axis aggression are absorbing many hours of detailed conversations in the White House.

Mr. Churchill, in his address at Cambridge accepting the honorary degree of doctor of laws, gave a preview of the plans that are now forming in the minds of the two democratic leaders for post-war security that will not fail as did the peace structure after the last great war.

Police Recover Truck Loaded With Army Equipment

A light truck loaded with army furniture and radios, reported stolen in Columbus, was recovered yesterday by state highway patrolmen on U. S. Route 42 four miles south of Mansfield where the truck was abandoned.

Patrolmen said the truck was owned by George F. Cook of Buffalo, N. Y. Ed Smith, 29 of Buffalo, the driver, reported it stolen in Columbus.

Smith said he suspected a Toledo youth who was helping him deliver the cargo to Dayton. He related to patrolmen that the youth had borrowed the truck keys so he could get his jacket out of the cab. The youth and truck disappeared at the same time. Bearings in the truck motor had been burnt out when it was found.

Patrolmen said a charge of auto theft would be filed in Mansfield municipal court today against the Toledo youth.

RITES HELD FOR MRS. A. F. REMY

Funeral services for Mrs. Albert Remy, wife of the president of the A. F. Remy company, who died early Sunday, were to be held today at 3 p. m. at the home, 183 West Second street.

Honorary pallbearers were E. D. Baxter, Charles F. Harding, William M. Weldon, Albert Ackerman, Charles H. Keating, Charles Remy, Judge Edwin Mansfield, J. R. Snapp, and Ivan Biddle.

Active pallbearers were John Routzon, B. M. Banks, Kent Oberlin, John Cook, James Russell and David Davies. Services were to be conducted by Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

TWO INJURED IN FREAK MISHAPS

Boy Hurt When Taxi Strikes Him While Playing, Another Runs Into Rear of Car.

Two Mansfield youths suffered minor injuries Sunday night in freak accidents in the city, while a 16-year-old Canton youth was injured in a truck-automobile collision on U. S. Route 250 east of Ashland.

Bobby Sonner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Sonner, rear of 182 West Fourth street, suffered injuries to his left leg when a Yellow Stripe cab, driven by Garland Ray Stevens, 23, of 74 Bowman street, struck him while he was playing in the driveway of a filling station at Fourth and Bowman streets.

Stevens said he drove into the station to turn around and failed to see the boy until after the car struck him. Stevens said the youth told him he wasn't hurt so Stevens drove on.

Tom Jones, 118 Wood street, suffered head injuries Sunday night when he collided with the rear of a parked car near his home. The impact with the boy's head damaged the tail light and dented a rear fender, police said. The Jones youth was playing football when he rammed the car, he told officers. He was not seriously hurt.

Joseph Lab, 16, of Canton suffered head lacerations Monday afternoon when the car in which he was riding collided with a parked truck on U. S. Route 250 near Ashland, causing both vehicles to overturn. Lab was riding with Ernest Young, 18, of Canton.

TESTS PLANNED

Aptitude Exams For Nurses To Be Held Tomorrow.

Aptitude tests for girls entering nurses training at Mansfield General hospital this fall will be conducted tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., Miss Mabel Selfe, superintendent of nurses, said today.

Approximately 10 girls are expected to take the test. The tests have been given three times previously and another one will be conducted before the term starts on October 1. Miss Selfe said that the girls must take the tests as scheduled.

Any girl planning to take the nurses training should sign up by next week, Miss Selfe said.

MANSFIELDER SENT TO PEN

Roy D. Rush, of Mansfield, was sentenced at Fremont today to one to seven years in Ohio penitentiary on four counts each of forging Norwalk Trunk Lines payroll checks, but sentence was deferred when a friend posted $200 to give Rush an opportunity to make restitution, a news dispatch from Fremont said.

Rush had pleaded guilty to the four counts contained in an indictment. He promised to pay $7 weekly until restitution had been made.

76,000 WAR WORKERS IDLE DAILY IN OHIO

End of Absenteeism Would Cut State's Manpower Needs By 75 Per Cent.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio's manpower needs during the remainder of 1943 could be cut by 75 per cent if absenteeism were eliminated completely in the state's war plants, E. L. Keenan, state war manpower commission director, said today.

Keenan said the state's 1,200 prime war contractors must recruit an additional 100,000 workers—most of them from the ranks of women and non-essential workers—in order to maintain production schedules for the remainder of 1943.

A study of absenteeism in Ohio revealed, however, that approximately 76,000 Ohio war workers are absent from their work each working day, Keenan said. The average absentee rate was 6.3 per cent.

Nine out of 10 reporting employers said absenteeism was below 10 per cent, half reported rates of five per cent or below and only five per cent had absentee rates in excess of 15 per cent, Keenan said.

Keenan said women are the worst offenders with an average daily rate of 8.8 per cent.

Aircraft and aircraft parts manufacturers reported the highest absentee rate—10.5 per cent for all workers and 17.4 per cent for women employes.

Toledo and Youngstown had the best records among Ohio's larger cities with 4.9 per cent each. Canton and Cincinnati with 8.4 and 8.2 per cent respectively had the poorest records, Keenan said. Dayton's average absentee rate was 6.7 per cent.

Keenan said WMC offices were conducting programs to reduce absenteeism in Dayton, Lima, Sidney, Piqua and Troy.

SEES NEED FOR WIDER MARKETS

Weisman Says Broader Division of Labor Essential In Post-War Reconstruction.

Much wider markets and broader division of labor throughout the world are regarded by Russell Weisman, Cleveland economist on the faculty of Western Reserve university, as essential to post-war reconstruction and relief of distressed peoples of the world.

Speaking at today's meeting of the Mansfield Rotary club, Weisman emphasized the importance of a return to the economic philosophy of production, industry and thrift as essential to restoration of a sound and solvent America following the war.

Mentioning post-war planning, he said: "Many people have been talking on this subject but few have been talking intelligently. It has been a life of ease that has been presented as a goal but the origins of wealth are the same as they were a thousand years ago—wealth is the product of labor and production is as necessary in peace-time as during a war."

Early restoration of the dignity and authority of local self-government, reversing the present 10-year trend toward centralization, was also presented as essential to successful operation of democracy.

"The millions of persons on federal payrolls, with their relatives and dependents are sufficient to turn practically any national contest for office," Weisman said, in expressing approval of the idea of limiting tenure in public offices so that incumbents could apply themselves to their tasks rather than immediately becoming concerned about re-election.

David Little was program chairman of the meeting at which Howard Gongwer, presidnt of the club, presided. Group singing was directed by LeMoine Derr with Earl Black as pianist.

FORM 2 CLASSES

Red Cross Organizes New Home Nursing Courses.

Two Red Cross Home Nursing classes are being started on Sept. 15 at the Red Cross Home Nursing rooms at the John Simpson Junior high schol building.

The afternoon class which starts at 1:30 p. m., is to be taught by Mrs. G. W. Weller, R. N. Mrs. Ralph Gramly, R. N., will teach the evening class which is to be held at 7:30 p. m. The course requires not less than 24 hours, and each session is two hours long.

Anyone may take the course, which is designed to teach a person how to maintain a healthy home and how to give simple nursing care. Registrations can be made at the Red Cross office.

DIES AT AGE 71

NEW LONDON — Mrs. Wilson Motter, 71, former resident of Huron county, died at her home in Savannah late yesterday.

She is survived by her husband and a brother, Albert Carpenter, of New London.

Funeral services are to be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Federated church in Savannah. Burial is to be in New London at Grove street cemetery.

DRINKING PARTIES REVEALED IN COURT MARTIAL TESTIMONY

(By United Press)

SELFRIDGE FIELD, Mich.—A story of high life and drinking parties at a vacation lodge at Oscoda, Mich., was unfolded today in testimony at the court martial of Col. William T. Colman, deposed commander of Selfridge Field.

Colman is being tried on seven charges, alleging violations of five articles of war, which grew out of the shooting last May 5 of Pfc. William McRae, a negro soldier.

Maj. Charles B. Horton, psychiatrist at Barksdale Field, La., took the stand today and reversed his previous opinion that alcohol was not responsible for the shooting of the negro by Colman.

Horton examined Colman July 11 to 13 and said he believed Colman's psycho-neurotic condition was responsible for the shooting. He said he based his opinion on information given him by Colman and Lieut. Col. Harry King, head of the base hospital at Selfridge. He added that he thought King gave him the information as a disinterested party, but later discovered that King had been on drinking parties with Colman at Herman Granse's vacation lodge near Oscoda.

Granse is an official of the Aladin Manufacturing company of Bay City, makers of pre-fabricated houses for the army air bases at Selfridge and Oscoda. Granse's two sons, Sgt. James and Corp. Robert, are two of the soldiers which Colman had transferred to Selfridge "illegally," according to the charge.

Another soldier which the army charges was illegally transferred by Colman is Pvt. (now lieutenant) Benson Ford, son of the late Edsel Ford, who was moved to Selfridge Field from Fort Custer Oct. 11, 1942. Ford now is stationed at the army induction center at Detroit.

POLICE CITE NINE DRIVERS

Three Fined After Entering Guilty Pleas; Others Free After Posting Bonds.

Three of nine drivers cited by Mansfield police and state highway patrolmen for traffic violations over the holiday week-end were fined after pleading guilty today in municipal court. The others either were released after posting bond and waiving hearing or their hearings were set for later dates.

Jack B. Landi, Mansfield R. D. 5, was fined $5 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way. His car was involved in a minor accident on North Diamond street, police said.

Fritz George Hanner, 18, of 515 Shepard road, a motorcyclist, charged with speeding on Park avenue east, was fined $10 and costs, while Sylvester Norris, Ashland R. D. 2, was fined $5 and costs for permitting an unlicensed operator to drive his car.

Motorists arrested by the state highway patrol for speeding on U. S. Route 42 north of the city and were released after posting $16.30 bond each were:

George Brubaker, Mansfield; Carl Osterland, Cincinnati; Aubrey Devay, Cleveland; Charles F. Kohler, Ardmore, Pa., and Cornelius R. Breitenbach, Louisville, Ky.

Harold H. Sheehan, Erie, Pa., cited by police for speeding on Lexington avenue, posted $25 bond for his appearance in municipal court Sept. 16.

NEEDS 100 MORE

Blood Donor Schedule For Sept. 15 Unfilled.

More blood donors are needed for Wednesday, Sept. 15, when the Red Cross Mobile Blood Donor Unit will be in Mansfield for the September visit, the blood donor committee said today.

The unit will be here for two days, but the schedule for Tuesday is filled. About 100 more volunteers are needed for Wednesday.

Volunteers can call the blood donor committee at the Red Cross office. The mobile unit will be located at the R. B. Gardner building on Park avenue west, instead of John Simpson Junior High where it formerly has been.

150 PRESENT AT C. E. CONFERENCE

Ohio Leaders Conclude Fall Meeting In City; Awards Given at Session.

Approximately 150 Christian Endeavor society leaders from throughout Ohio, attended the three-day annual fall conference of the Ohio Christian Endeavor union last week-end at First Presbyterian church.

"Making Christian Endeavor Effective" was the theme of the conference. Topics on this subject in the discussion periods Sunday and Monday included "In the County," "In the State," and "After the War."

During the board meeting Sunday afternoon, Miss Emma Beck, 235 West Fourth street, was elected junior organization director for the state. Other officers had been elected at the union's conference in June.

Presentation of awards was made Sunday night. The Glen Massman high school award was given to Wayne County Christian Endeavor. Richland county received the Louis Ernst Loving cup for the best all-around work for the year. The James H. Thomas award for the best project was presented to Jefferson county.

Louis Ernst, state president, conducted the closing fellowship circle and devotions Monday afternoon.

Farewell Party Given Those On Way To Service

Richland county men about to leave for military service were guests of the Richland Victory Civic committee last night at the American Legion home.

Burns Kaltenberg acting as master of ceremonies presented a program of variety entertainment including songs by Bud Dowling, a trio, Loretta Fink, Norma Prion and Phemmie Wright, Jennie Schill, a character and tap dancer, and Joan Beard, singer.

A song and dance specialty by Loretta Fink and Norma Prion, an acrobatic dance by Madelon Newton and songs by Phemmie Wright and John Grabler completed the program.

Earl Saltzgaber, committee chairman introduced Mayor W. J. Locke, Rev. G. E. Swoyer and Miss Miriam Hooper, executive secretary of the Red Cross.

Following the program lunch was served to 250 guests and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

If you haven't, plan to do so at once. The dates of the Fair are September 20-27 and it will be held in the offices of The Gas Company. Don't miss this opportunity of entering your best jars of fruits and vegetables in competition with your friends and neighbors. Prizes total $50 and there are 108 ribbon awards. Stop in at The Gas Company for a copy of the official rules and entry blank and a supply of official labels. There's no charge for entering and any customer of The Ohio Fuel Gas Company is eligible to compete. Generous prizes will be awarded and you may be one of the winners. Entries will be received from September 8 to 15.

RECOVERY MOVE EXHIBITED BY STOCK LEADERS

Railroads Reduce Debt With Wartime Receipts, Also Reduce Charges.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Leading stocks exhibited modest recovery tendencies in today's early market transactions.

Up fractionally at a quiet opening were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Pepsi-Cola, Radio Corp.; Armour, Johns-Manville, Chrysler, American Can and Bendix. General Motors and Standard Oil (NJ) were slightly lower.

Boardrooms expressed interest in the estimate of the Interstate commerce commission that Class 1 railroads in 1942 trimmed $324,375,299 from their funded debt. Fixed and contingent charges for the last calendar year totalled $59,219,483, a decrease of $2,837,538 from 1941.

REVIVE 'WATCH'

LONDON — (INS) — After more than three years of plugging the Nazi battle song "We Sail Against Britain," the German radio today began a strong campaign to revive "The Watch on the Rhine."

All German radios are now broadcasting the latter song as part of Goebbels drive to dispel invasion fears.

THEATERS

Sea Thriller.

"Action in the North Atlantic" with Humphrey Bogart, Raymond Massey, Alan Hale and Julie Bishop continues today at the Ritz theater. The film tells the saga of the heroic men of the Merchant Marine who daily brave death on the high seas to maintain the vital lifelines to American and United forces abroad. Bogart plays his first movie role as a sea-faring man. Co-feature is "Cowboy in Manhattan" with Robert Paige, Frances Langford, Leon Errol and Walter Catlett.

'Lady of Burlesque.'

Barbara Stanwyck and Michael O'Shea play the romantic leads in "Lady of Burlesque" showing now through Wednesday at the Park theater. Barbara Stanwyck plays the part of Dixie Daisy, a small town burlesque performer who suddenly gets her big chance at the Old Opera House, a famous burlesque theater on Broadway. O'Shea is the comic of the burlesque company, but is also the leading man of the theatrical extravaganza. Co-feature is "Thumbs-Up," a musical comedy.

Watch on the Rhine.

Continuing today at the Ohio theater is "Watch on the Rhine", film version of the Broadway success of the same name. The new Warner Bros. film stars Bette Davis, one of the screen's most versatile actresses and Paul Lukas, star of the Broadway production. The story is laid in a luxurious Washington home where the mystery of the weary and sick Kurt Muller, a German anti-Fascist, unfolds. Running with the dramatic film is Walt Disney's chuckleful "Der Fuhrer's Face" named for its song-bit of the same name.

Story of Sabotage.

A story of sabotage and treachery, "They Came to Blow Up America" opens tomorrow at the Madison theater. It parallels the case of the eight Nazi saboteurs who landed on the Long Island and Florida coastlines and were captured by the FBI. Starred in the film is George Sanders supported by a strong featured cast headed by Anna Sten. Sanders is seen as a government agent who, disguised as a renegade American, enters Germany and is enrolled in the German school for saboteurs. "Lost Canyon" featuring William Boyd is co-feature on this bill.

Churchill Honored At Harvard

Britain's prime minister, Winston Churchill, honored at Harvard university with an honorary degree of doctor of laws, is shown with Harvard's president, James B. Conant, at Cambridge, Mass. In a speech after receiving the degree, Churchill declared the "working system" now proving so successful between the U. S. and Britain should be preserved for years after the war, if necessary, for the peace of the world.

Held In Theft — Two small brothers were turned over to county juvenile authorities today by police after Mrs. Grace Hollister, 381 West Fifth street, reported the pair had stolen some money from milk bottles on her porch. One of the youths admitted taking 50 cents, officers said.

Two Bitten by Dogs—Two persons were attacked by dogs yesterday in the city, police said. Charles Culp, 6, of 163 Gibson avenue, suffered a wound on his back when a large dog attacked him at 536 Harter avenue, while Howard Long, 319 Prescott street, was bitten on the right hip while he was walking near his home.

Fire Damages Store—Flames which were said to have started from a defective motor in a refrigerator unit Monday afternoon damaged the Hines Neighborhood store, 373 Newman street. Firemen from the Nos. 2 and 4 stations brought the blaze under control. Acting Chief L. R. Zimmerman said. Damage, said to have been "rather heavy" was confined largely to the store contents.

BIRTHDAY CARD IRKS PRIVATE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa.—(U.P.)—According to a local private stationed at Keesler field, Miss., he's not so happy about his recent birthday, which fell on a Sunday.

It was bad enough when he drew a Sunday kitchen police detail, but he felt worst of all when he walked, exhausted, to his barracks after washing supper dishes to find in the mail bag a card which read:

"Wishing you a pleasant birthday, brightened by a friendly sun,
And because it comes on Sunday, it will be a perfect one.
May you have a month of Sundays just as full of cheer—
Then 11 more just like it, all to make a perfect year!"

IN HOLLYWOOD-- By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—When Sonny Tufts goes to see his mother back in Winchester, Mass., he'll be pretty sure that no brass bands will meet him at the station, nor will banners of welcome span the main streets.

The home towns of Ginger Rogers, Claudette Colbert, Robert Taylor and Clark Gable all may be right proud of their youngsters, but Sonny isn't counting on Winchester. He figures he has no leg to stand on, there. Winchester's Mr. Tufts went to Yale instead of Harvard. He became a night club entertainer. And finally he took up with those rowdies in Hollywood and went to work in the cinema. Imagine a member of the Tufts family, which founded Tufts college, doing things like that!

Coons

Sonny (who is content to be Sonny instead of Bowen Charleton Tufts III) seems to be bearing up under it. Maybe his heart is breaking but he doesn't show it. So Winchester isn't proud of him? Well, Paramount is after his first acting job in "So Proudly We Hail." And RKO is for his work in "Government's Girl."

* * *

Sonny was meant to be a banker like his father, his grandfather, and his great-grandfather. Sonny's father, oddly enough, kept him out of the banking business, suggested that he be a newspaper man instead.

"Do you mind if I become a singer?" asked Sonny.

"Not if you're a good singer," said his father.

Sonny's father was disappointed but didn't object when Sonny went to Yale, and he didn't object when Sonny organized and orchestra and took it on college cruises to the Mediterranean. "He was very patient," says Sonny, "and understanding."

Tufts gave up the band to study for opera, but deserted opera to become a night club singer. Last year he ran into a college pal, Alexis Thompson, wealthy New York sports promoter. "Alex made me a proposition," says Sonny. "He would pay me a salary, I would give him half of anything I made and he would get me into pictures."

Thompson paid Sonny's way here. Sonny got an interview with the casting director at Paramount, and a test. The test got him the lead opposite Paulette Goddard in "So Proudly We Hail." RKO sent over to borrow Fred MacMurray for "Government Girl" but Paramount sold Dudley Nichols on Sonny Tufts instead.

Tufts, who is the big good-natured blond type, is very pleased with how things are going. He'll be glad when the year is over and he can stop forking over half his pay check to Thompson, although he is glad of the deal he made. When he finishes this picture he expects to go back to see his mother and brave the old home town.

"I'll sort of sneak in," he says. "I won't let the townspeople know I'm there. It will be better that way."

President Props OWI Prestige In Army, Navy Letters

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Following up a decision to give the public the stark facts of the war, President Roosevelt has sent out letters to the army, the navy and the state department, intimating that the Office of War Information (OWI) was created for just that purpose and should have a freer hand.

OWI in any future disagreements with the army or navy may appeal to the White House itself, the president indicated, even when the services might claim "military security" as the reason for withholding facts.

The letters did little more than restate the powers originally conferred on OWI more than a year ago -- powers which OWI never succeeded in exercising fully—but they have tended, authoritative sources said, to restore OWI's damaged prestige and to remind the armed services that the agency's recommendations are not to be ignored.

DIES AT HOME NEAR GILEAD

PAY INCREASE, VACATION PLAN FOR CITY WORKERS UP TONIGHT

City employes will be in the limelight at tonight's council meeting when the workers' request for pay increases and a new vacation plan for them are due for action by council.

An amended ordinance, requiring that appointive city workers be in the service of the city three years before they are entitled to two weeks' vacation with pay, is scheduled for council consideration. Under the existing ordinance workers get two weeks with pay after they have worked one year continuously for the city. The amendment would give employes with from one to three years service only one week with pay.

Also on the council calendar for tonight are Mayor W. J. Locke's proposal that council appropriate $1,000 to pay three real estate men to appraise the 1,000 acres of land the city needs for its airport project, the City Recreation board's proposal to submit a two-tenths mill levy to a public vote in November, and the hiring of a new council clerk to succeed Robert R. Black who resigned.

The tax levy, covering a five-year period, would provide about $12,000 a year for a recreation program for the city's young people.

Scheduled to get Black's post as council clerk is Charles J. Stecker, former Richland county recorder, who has been endorsed for the clerk's job by the county Republican executive committee.

City employes are not likely to learn tonight how much pay increase they will receive, if any at all, but council has promised them an answer as to whether they will get raises this year or have to wait until 1944.

FORMER ENVOY DIES IN FALL

Cudahy, Ex-Ambassador to Belgium, Thrown From Horse.

MILWAUKEE —(AP)— John Cudahy, 55-year-old director of the Wisconsin council of defense and former United States diplomat, was killed yesterday in following his favorite sport - horseback riding.

Sheriff's deputies theorized that Cudahy was thrown when his horse stumbled in trying to jump a small drainage ditch.

Cudahy was named ambassador to Poland in 1933 by President Roosevelt and served until 1937 when he was made minister to Eire. He became ambassador to Belgium in 1940 and held that post until 1943 when he returned home.

WINS 2 RIBBONS

Hytone Adds To Laurels at Canton Horse Show.

Hytone, a Tennessee walking horse owned by Mr. and Mrs. S. Glen Vinson of Glenleigh Farms, entered the Hall of Fame in horsedom during the week-end when he won two blue ribbons at the Canton army benefit horse show. The victories put Hytone in the Blue Book, the "who's who" of horsedom.

Vinson rode Hytone in his two victorious performances.

Placing second was another Glenleigh entry, four-year-old Midnight, with Fred Norris riding.

Hytone and two stable-mates, Midnight and Ohio Trouble, will be shown Sunday at Mt. Gilead, and then go to the Kentucky state fair at Churchill Downs, Louisville, Ky.

MIDDLE-OF-ROAD FOREIGN POLICY PLAN FAVORED

GOP Expected To Adopt 'Plank' Today; Agree on Domestic Issues.

BULLETIN

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. —(INS)—The GOP post-war advisory council today accused the New Deal of sponsoring instruments of Fascism, denounced the "harassment of America by petty bureaucracy."

(By International News Service)

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich.—The Republican post-war advisory council today prepared to end two days of deliberations by adopting a resolution proposing a policy of "cooperation" with other world powers for the maintenance of peace, but reserving "freedom of action" to this nation.

Also slated for adoption was a second resolution outlining a post-war policy on domestic issues.

The foreign policy resolution was prepared by a committee composed of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, chairman, Sen. Warren R. Austin of Vermont, Governors Dwight H. Green of Illinois and Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, and Reps. Charles Eaton of New Jersey and Frances P. Bolton of Ohio.

Reported to satisfy the so-called "nationalist" leanings of Vandenberg and Green on one hand, and the internationalist viewpoints of Austin and Eaton on the other, the resolution is said to avoid specifying what sort of international organization would be set up for the cooperative effort proposed.

It does, however, demand that whatever the course, it be taken only through the "constitutional process" of senate ratification. The phrase "freedom of action" was said to have been offered by Austin who objected to reservations employing the word "sovereignty" such as embraced by a pending senate measure of which Vandenberg is co-author.

"I think the resolution will have unanimous approval," Vandenberg said.

Vandenberg's committee achieved a draft of its resolution after only seven hours of discussion, but the committee on domestic issues composed of Sens. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, (chairman), and Albert W. Hawkes of New Jersey, Governors Thomas E. Dewey of New York and John W. Bricker of Ohio, and Reps. J. William Ditter of Pennsylvania and Roy O. Woodruff of Michigan, worked far into the night before reaching an agreement.

Bricker and Dewey were reported to have united to resist congressional domination of the domestic committee and to insist on more specific language in the resolution than was being advocated by the legislators.

PUTS LIMIT ON JOB-SHIFTERS

Selective Service Orders Non-Deferrables To Change By Oct. 15.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Draft-age men in non-deferrable activities today were placed under limitations in their search for war jobs in a move which the selective service system said would prevent them from gaining an advantage over men in other occupations in the normal course of induction calls.

Selective service announced last night that non-deferrables would be given until Sept. 15 to register with the U. S. employment service for jobs in essential activities and until Oct. 15 to switch to such jobs.

However, if they fail to shift by Oct. 15, or if their order number is reached between Oct. 1 and 15, in the normal local board reclassification procedures, they will be ordered up for induction.

Until the limit was set, a non-deferrable registrant was entitled to a 30-day period of grace dating from the day he presented to his draft board evidence of registering with the employment service. That would have made it possible for some to gain considerable leeway. Now, no period of grace can extend beyond Oct. 15.

DEATH FOLLOWS LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Susan Squarla Succumbs; Rites To Be Wednesday.

A long illness ended in the death yesterday of Mrs. Susan Squarla, 63, of Mansfield R. D. 2.

Born in Jugoslavia June 8, 1878, Mrs. Squarla came to Mansfield 30 years ago.

She is survived by a son, John Vandlik and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Kovinchick, both of Mansfield.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home where services will be conducted at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday with the Christian Apostolic church in charge. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

WAR WOUNDS FATAL

CLEVELAND —(AP)— First Lt. Cyrus Eaton, jr., son of the Cleveland financier, died of wounds received in action over the Netherlands July 30, the war department advised his father. Young Eaton previously was listed as missing.

Many odd requests come to and from the Red Cross office. One of the latest is a plea from the Blood Donor committee for a number of plain white duck shower curtains. Partitions are needed for the R. B. Gardner building where the mobile blood donor unit is to be located from now on, and the committee plans to make these from the shower curtains. Persons having such curtains which they would be willing to donate was asked to call Mrs. J. C. Gorman at 5182-6.

The curtain dropped yesterday on the swimming season at Mansfield parks, but the parks are going to be open to picnickers throughout the colorful weeks of autumn. Park pavilions will be open until about the last of September, Parks Superintendent Frank Burton said, and the furnaces will be available until cold weather. Removal of equipment from the pavilions for the winter season won't begin for nearly a month, he indicated.

A recent issue of the Knoxville, Tenn. Sentinel carried a picture of U. S. army and navy officials meeting somewhere in the north to plan the Kiska campaign. Among these officials was Brigadier General E. D. Post, former Shelby resident. General Post who is only 43 is one of the youngest generals in the U. S. army. He was born in Shelby and attended Shelby public schools. A graduate of West Point, General Post went to Alaska three years ago to assist in the establishment of Anchorage Camp.

SUIT TAKEN TO HIGHEST COURT

Action For Injunction Against 'Road That Begins Nowhere' To Be Heard In November.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — The taxpayer's suit seeking an injunction to prevent completion of the $1,344,680 Willow Freeway project south of Cleveland was carried to the state supreme court today.

The suit, filed by Samuel A. Horvitz, Cleveland contractor, and naming State Highway Director Hal G. Sours and the Lombardo Brothers Construction company of Cleveland as defendants, probably will be heard by the high court in November, court attaches said.

The suit has been in the courts since April, 1942, when Horvitz filed the suit declaring there were five flaws in the award by Sours of the contract to the Lombardo firm:

General abuse of discretion by the highway director in award of the contract for a "road that begins nowhere and ends in a vacant lot" during war time;

That the contract was awarded on a single bid;

That there was an attempt to bribe an employe of Horvitz by the Lombardo firm prior to the award of the contract to find out if the Horvitz firm was going to bid and if so how much;

That neither the Lombardo firm nor the Herkner Construction comstruction company of Cleveland, a sub-contractor, was properly pre-qualified to bid; and

That the wage scales on the project were not properly pre-determined by the department of industrial relations.

LONG ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH

I. B. White Succumbs At Home In Mt. Gilead.

MT. GILEAD—I. B. White, 59, died at his home in Mt. Gilead this morning following an illness of several months.

A native of Mt. Gilead, Mr. White was a member of the Episcopal church, and a 32nd degree Mason. He was also clerk of Gilead Township at the time of his death and secretary of the Kiwanis club.

Surviving are his wife, Inez; a son, Sgt. Richard White, now in North Africa; two brothers, Don White of Mt. Gilead and A. S. White of Columbus and a sister, Mrs. Grover Clements of Columbus.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Craven funeral home with Rev. S. S. Hardy in charge. Burial will be in the Rivercliff cemetery.

MAN WITH 34 ALIASES HELD AS SWINDLER

FBI Makes Arrest In Canton, Says Suspect Got Thousands of Dollars From Women.

(By International News Service)

CANTON—A 37-year-old man who, the Federal Bureau of Investigation charged, over a period of seven years allegedly used 34 aliases in swindling victims, mostly women, out of thousands of dollars, was to be arraigned at Canton today.

Lee Boardman, special agent in charge of the Cleveland FBI office, said Bernard Frederick Champagne was arrested by FBI agents at Dalton, near Wooster, yesterday on charges of impersonating federal officials.

Champagne, Boardman said, is wanted on indictments charging violation of the federal impersonation statutes at San Francisco; Salt Lake City; New York; Danville, Ill.; and Cleveland.

In the specific instance which brought about his arrest, Boardman said Champagne under the name of Allen Steven Klein, persuaded Mrs. Gladys Mohn, a Dalton widow, to let him have $4,312 to invest in property in Florida. Champagne told his victim, the FBI agent said, that the government was to buy this land to build an airport and promised Mrs. Mohn she would get $22,000 in resale.

It was charged that Champagne represented himself to Mrs. Mohn as a lieutenant commander in the United States navy, acting as a doctor and surgeon.

A native of Ticonderoga, N. Y., Champagne at one time proposed marraige to a New York school teacher and secured $600 from her but disappeared before the wedding, Boardman said.

Other complaints were lodged against Champagne at Daytona Beach, Fla.; in Maine; at Salt Lake City; Kankakee, Ill.; and at Omaha, Neb., Boardman said.

At one time, Champagne became engaged to two women simultaneously, acquiring a total of more than $1000 from his two victims, Boardman asserted.

DIES AT AGE 85

John F. Teeter Was Native of Washington Township.

John F. Teeter, 85, of Lexington R. D. 1, died Monday at a hospital in Columbus after a lingering illness.

He was born Sept. 3, 1858 in Washington township and spent his entire life in that vicinity. He was a member of the Christain church at Bellville.

Surviving are his widow, Hulda, two sons, Eli and Roy Teeter; two daughters, Mrs. C. J. Anderson, and Mrs. J. C. Robinson, all of Mansfield; a sister, Mrs. Nora Hawkins of Mansfield; and three brothers, William of Perrysville, Norman of Bellville and R. C. Teeter of Florida. Seven grandchildren and nine great grandchildren also survive.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home where services will be conducted Thursday at 1:30 p. m. with Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. Friends are asked to omit flowers.

68 DEAD IN WRECKS OF 2 CRACK TRAINS

Congressional, 20th Century Limiteds Derailed With Heavy Toll of Lives.

ment. Others were strewn on the tracks ,all of which were ripped up and twisted into weird shapes.

Endres said an investigation would be made to determine the cause of the boiler explosion.

E. O. Hirsch, Chicago, a passenger in one of the cars that went down the embankment, said there was no panic and the passengers had no difficulty getting out.

Most of the passengers, returning home after the Labor day holiday, were asleep when the accident occurred.

The main line was blocked completely. Eastbound trains were rerouted at Syracuse.

New York state also was the scene of two other train accidents, both minor.

Four women were injured, none seriously, when four cars of a 10-car Long Island railroad electric train left the rails at Hempstead, N. Y., last night.

Two trainmen suffered second degree burns, but no passengers were hurt, when an Erie railroad combination express, passenger and milk train was derailed eight miles east of Port Jervis, N. Y., at 4 a. m. today.

In Washington, the federal bureau of investigation said today that "There is no evidence of sabotage" in the Congressional Limited wreck.

The bureau said it had not yet been advised of the 20th Century crackup.

The Congressional Limited wreck was one of the world railroad disasters in the nation's history.

The electric-powered train, which makes the 226-mile run in 210 minutes with Newark, N. J., the first stop, carried 541 passengers—many of them service men. The accident occurred at 6:12 p. m. (EWT).

Railroad officials said the seventh car of the 16-car train, on which the "hot box" occurred, hurtled into a steel pole supporting overhead power lines, and was cut in two vertically as though by a giant axe.

The coach behind jammed accordion-like against it. Six other cars behind them were thrown from the rails, but all the dead and most of the injured were in the seventh and eighth coaches.

Passengers were buried under the debris from which many of the living were not released until hours later. Some were thrown through windows; galley workers in the diner were scalded. One woman lay in the wreckage for six hours, calmly telling rescuers "Take your time, I can stand it."

Robert Calvert, of Birmingham, Ala., a veteran of the fighting in North Africa, who was walking in the aisle of the third car, said something hit him in the stomach and—

"It seemed a million people were on top of me. I couldn't get my breath. I thought, 'This is it. I will die now'."

Roy Howard, president of the New York World-Telegram, and his wife, and Lin Yutang, the Chinese author, were on the train but escaped injury.

Traffic on the mainline still was blocked early today, but freight and through passenger trains were rerouted around the city on other lines.

Army guards with fixed bayonets and sub-machine guns headed a crowd away from the wreckage. Stretcher bearers had difficulty getting the dead and injured through the thousands who earlier had gathered at the scene, three miles east of the North Philadelphia station.

All available ambulances went to the wreck and hundreds of air rail wardens were mobilized to help police, firemen, soldiers and sailors in rescue work. Hospitals pleaded for registered nurses and blood donors.

The last person to be taken alive from the wreckage was Mrs. Christiana Nix, 28, of Long Island City, N. Y., who lay for six hours with her head and torso outside a sheared coach and both legs held firmly inside.

It was she who had said, "Take your time. I can stand it."

"There are dead people in here all around me," she moaned to a physician who administered a drug to relieve the pain. A marine who had occupied the seat with Mrs. Nix lay dead nearby.

For hours rescuers cut through the wreckage with acetylene torches before Mrs. Nix could be removed and taken to a hospital where her condition was reported critical. During that time she was given several transfusions but not once, witnesses said, did she complain.

In the same car, rescue workers saw the bodies of a man and a woman, the man's arm protectively around the woman's shoulders.

"Please take care of me: my mother would want you to," pleaded a soldier to Mrs. Margaret Akers, a voluntary worker, before he died in her arms. His identification tag torn away by the wreck, the soldier's body was placed with the unidentified dead.

Bailey Beard, 54, the Congressional Limited's head waiter and a veteran of 26 years of service with the Pennsylvania on the Washington-New York run, was in the diner, which was midway of the train, when he was thrown to the floor by a severe jolt.

There were about 50 people in the diner at the time, Beard said, about half of them women, a terrific crash whipped the diner sideways and threw half a dozen passengers through the windows.

"Coffee and hot water and dishes flew all over the galley," he related, and men working there were badly scalded.

When the car finally stopped, Beard was lying on the floor beneath three tables.

"There was panic everywhere," he said. "Women were screaming at the top of their lungs. The men in the galley were screaming from the pain of the scalding."

Beard extricated himself and was helped outside by rescue workers. He was badly battered about the head and body and suffered leg injuries.

At Frankford hospital, where hundreds of people went in response to a plea for blood donations, a woman, her clothing torn to shreds, her face covered with blood and dirt, helped carry the inert body of her husband into the emergency room. An interne made a quick examination and waived the body to an improvised morgue. The wife was taken to another room for treatment before her name was given.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard were in the 11th car from the locomotive.

"I knew it was a wreck and I pushed my wife to the floor, believing she would be safest there if the car turned over," Howard said. "I lay down on the floor too.

"Fortunately, the car did not overturn and we were not hurt. I took my time, and as soon as I was able I left the train and telephoned the story of the wreck to New York."

Another newspaper executive aboard was Lee Tracy, promotion manager of the New York Mirror, who was on the 10th car.

"The car started to jerk and began bouncing down the rails," he said. "I saw many people fall from their seats into aisles. Some were moaning, but did not seem to be hurt seriously."

Also among the passengers were Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, wife of the former secretary of war, now a brigadier general, and Mrs. Myron C. Taylor, wife of the former president of the U. S. Steel corporation and President Roosevelt's personal ambassador to the Vatican.

ICC Begins Probe Of Pennsy Wreck.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The interstate commerce commission today launched an intensive investigation into the wreck of the Congressional Limited, crack Pennsylvania passenger train.

Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman said that results of the ICC probe would be submitted to ODT for further study. Pending completion of the report, officials declined comment.

Meanwhile, American Red Cross national headquarters in Washington announced establishment of an "inquiry service" to accommodate persons in the national capital area wishing to locate possible victims in the wreck.

Holiday Death Toll Near 1942 Figure

(By Associated Press)

The nation's Labor day weekend death toll—swelled by one of the worst disasters in American railroad history and a hotel fire—today appeared to have approached, if not surpassed, last year's total of 350 fatalities.

Of the death so far recorded, excluding the two railroad wrecks and the hotel fire, 137 were traffic victims and 113 miscellaneous, including 25 drownings.

California had the highest total, 26 traffic fatalities and 18 miscellaneous deaths, two of which were drownings. Ohio and Illinois each had 18 deaths while New York counted 16.

EDUCATORS MAP POST-WAR PLAN

Draft Tentative Schedule of Studies To Be Taught In Schools.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO—Blueprints for new studies to be taught in post-war schools have been tentatively drawn up by educational administrators and teachers meeting at an educational conference sponsored by the University of Chicago.

Teaching youth how to make creative use of leisure was noted as a new educational field that should be emphasized. Dr. Floyd Reeves, professor of educational administration at the University of Chicago, explained:

"Increased use of the machine has provided us with much more leisure. What is needed now is education for the creative use of that leisure. Such education should be a major functions of schools and colleges because there appears to be no other way it can be provided.

Learning an understanding of Latin America was deemed essential for the future of democracy by Joseph H. Spear, executive director of the Pan-American council. He said:

"The creation of an informed public opinion is an educational problem in its broadest sense. The future not only of Latin America but the future of democracy itself is wrapped up in it.

"Hemispheric accord is a basis for post-war democracy, yet schools have neglected Latin America almost completely. There are in our schols and universities today scarcely any men who know anything about Latin America, or who much care.

Disastrous Fire Chars Texas Hotel, 47 Bodies Recovered

start down. We begged them to let each man take his time and they did. Men started pouring down the escape. I saw one man run to the window and jump head first. He dropped straight down to the sidewalk. As we went down we saw men jumping off the fire escape at every level."

Police and firemen said it was probable that other bodies would be found in the wreckage.

They said that only three of the 47 had so far been identified.

Police quoted W. L. Chappell, the night clerk, as saying that about 12:15 a. m. he heard someone on the second floor call "fire." Chappell said he found a mattress ablaze in one of the rooms, but that he extinguished the flames with a bucketfull of water.

Shortly afterward, Chappell declared, flames were discovered shooting out from a luggage room across the hall.

Police said the fire apparently ate quickly through the framework interior of the old brick building, trapping most of the persons on the second floor.

The hotel, called the Gulf, is at Preston and Louisiana.

BUILDERS SET A NEW RECORD

PORTLAND, Ore. — (INS) — Beating the nation's record by producing a subchaser every 26 working days is just part of ordinary production routine at Commercial Iron Works in Portland.

It's such a routine that neither President Wick Casey nor any of the other officials bothered to mention that subchaser production was cut from 32 days to 29, then 27, and finally to 26 days.

Or as hull Superintendent Jack Smith replied, as only a Scotsman can when faced with the facts, "We wouldna toot our own horn."

Motioning casually to the small typewritten schedule of launchings thumbtacked above his desk, Smith burred, "It's a' there for the world to see."

Sails to Pick Up American Prisoners of Japs

The Gripsholm, Swedish liner in use as an exchange ship, has sailed from New York bound for the Orient where, it is hoped, it will return home with 1,250 American men, women and children, now prisoners of the Japanese. The liner left the United States with some 1,300 Japanese civilians aboard, who will be repatriated in exchange for the Americans.

NEWSPRINT CUT FORCES PAPER TO RATION ADS

Cleveland Press Announces New Curtailment; Toledo Blade Skips Editions.

CLEVELAND — To meet the curtailment in the amount of newsprint available, the Cleveland Press has announced that it is rationing the amount of local advertising it will accept in the future.

Earlier, the Press had announced it had been forced to curtail both classified and national advertising by approximately 25 per cent.

"It is necessary to do these these things," the paper's announcement said, "in order to maintain a fair balance between the news and the advertising content of the paper, so that both our readers and our advertisers may be realt with evenhandedly."

The amount of newsprint available to every newspaper in the country has been rationed, with the amount available for each quarter of the year reduced. A new reduction is expected for the final quarter of 1943, starting Oct. 1, although the amount has not yet been determined.

TOLEDO--Confronted with the necessity of saving newsprint, due to rationing restrictions, the Toledo Blade dispensed with its Labor day editions yesterday.

Announcement of the move was made in Sunday's Blade. The announcement also revealed that the Blade has been forced to omit many columns of advertising from time to time in order to conserve paper.

The Blade's announcement also asserted that the amount of newsprint expected to be available in the future would be less than at present.

ALUMNI FUND BREAKS RECORDS

ITHACA, N. Y.—(INS)—Cornell university's alumni fund of 1942-43 has broken all previous records with a total of $185,131, exceeding the previous high of $178,508 made 13 years ago in 1929-30.

President Edmund E. Day said that the amount, from nearly 8,300 contributors, "is an achievement of which every Cornellian can be proud." Last year's total was $115,856 from 7,126 contributors.

When the year started, Dr. Day said, no one, in view of higher taxes, absences for military service and all the other disruptions of the war, looked for any large increase in the year's contributions.

USE PAPER

STOCKHOLM —(INS)— Scarcity of leather has resulted in permission being granted Swedish shoe manufacturers to use a certain amount of paper in parts of their product. Shortage of leather in Sweden has also resulted in stringent rationing of shoes, only one new pair being allowed in a period of 18 months.

BUILDS WORLD'S LARGEST HANGAR

AKRON, O.—(U.P.)—The Goodyear Aircraft corporation is building the largest flight hangar in the country at the Akron airport, which will give the rubber capital a dual claim to fame in aircraft "largests."

Already the airport boasts one of the largest lighter-than-air hangars ever built. The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. built it several years ago during the time of the dirigibles Macon and Akron.

The new hangar, with its runway, will cost $3,000,000—$1,000,000 to be used for a new 1,000-foot runway, and the rest for the hangar itself.

Navy planes being built by Goodyear will be housed in the huge plant when it is finished. The building will be owned by the Defense Plant corporation, and will be used for testing planes as they come off Goodyear's production lines.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1943.

Judged by the amount of motoring being done, some folks seem to think "the duration" is over.

Old grievances seem to be disappearing under stress of war, and a Georgia flier doesn't resent being mentioned as a "Yank ace."

An effort is being made to explain democracy to New Zealand natives—and it might be a good idea for them to send a committee to Washington to study it.

About Going Back To School

THIS IS BACK-TO-SCHOOL WEEK for many children, with Mansfield schools re-opening tomorrow. For children between the ages of 6 and 14 there will be no question as to the desirability of entering or continuing in school, but, under present conditions, some boys and girls in the 14 to 18 age range may be attracted by the idea of quitting school and "going to work."

Except in cases of dire necessity, or where the decision is influenced by physical subnormality or mental incapacity, it appears obvious that the first concern of children should be to secure sufficient education to compete on terms of equality for jobs or professions to which they may later be attracted, and to prepare themselves to assume the duties and responsibilities of citizenship.

Some instances can be cited, of course, of men who have become eminently successful after having "quit school" between 13 and 16, but even these are among the first to admit that more schooling would have increased their enjoyment of living, and they are also insistent that their children and grandchildren have educational advantages which they missed.

Even so great an instrument as the Constitution of the United States can go no further than to guarantee equality of OPPORTUNITY and it remains for the individual to determine the extent to which he will become equal in ABILITY—and acceptability—gauged by acquired knowledge, developed skill, dependable sobriety and the cultivated traits of character which make for good citizenship.

"Education," in its broader sense, includes much more than attendance at school or college, but "schooling," first by parents, then by teachers, and eventually by experience, is an essential part of the process of physical, mental and spiritual development required for useful living.

Railroads Sacrificing Safety

SAFETY RECORD of the railroads, built up by many years of increasing efficiency of operation and attention to upkeep of equipment, is being blemished by frequency of disastrous wrecks of passenger trains, some with heavy loss of life.

Last night's wreck of the Pennsylvania railroad's Congressional Limited in Philadelphia takes place among the nation's greatest rail tragedies in a quarter century and early investigation indicates it was caused by a defect in an old-type day coach which, under ordinary conditions would probably not have been in service.

Heavy passenger traffic, shortage of maintenance employes and inability to secure replacement equipment have made is impossible for railroads to properly handle the immense volume of freight and passenger business resulting from the war, and, while they are doing the best they can under the circumstances, it appears that safety should again be given emphasis.

Speed, and expansion of service, should not be permitted to exceed the bounds of dependable rolling stock and maintenance facilities.

Republicans Ponder Problems

EXCEPT as it offers opportunity for discussion, and for presentation of individual and group views on national and international problems, the gathering of Republican leaders at Mackinac island promises to be little more than a pleasant outing at a delightful spot.

Assertion by Harrison E. Spangler, Republican national committee chairman, that "this is not the time for this country to commit itself to specific obligations" briefly expresses a common sense view of the present international situation and should tend to discourage ideas of attempting to immediately set up alliances with foreign powers designed to carry through into the postwar reconstruction period.

The proposal by Governor Dewey, of New York, that the United States and Great Britain form a postwar military alliance, was premature, to say the least, and an idea expressed by Senator Taft in a speech in Mansfield last week to the effect that the United States should go no further at this point than to "express willingness to sit down and discuss with other of the Allied nations the problems of assuring future world peace," seems much sounder.

This is the proper time, of course, for serious thought and full discussion of America's beliefs on postwar reconstruction methods considered most likely to bring enduring peace, but always with the realization that each of the Allied nations emerging from the war will have its own ideas and problems and that all must be brought into friendly agreement before any workable peace formula can be evolved.

These considerations apply more specifically to Russia and China, at the moment, than to smaller nations in the present alliance against the Axis powers, and any peace formula or postwar planning that omits these vital factors is no more than a waste of time.

The effort of Governor John W. Bricker, of Ohio, to inject into the Mackinac island discussion of Republican policies, a notion that the presidency should be limited to one six-year term, can be construed only as evidence of political thinking about a minor matter instead of concentration on important domestic and foreign problems. The subject of one six-year term has been up before and got nowhere. It may, sometime, but there are too many vital things to be done now to be bothered about a six-year term or a third or fourth four-year term.

One of these important things will be for the Republican party to find a candidate for the presidency who has the capacity to creditably fill that high office in the event of his election thereto.

Now that the Four Freedoms have been linked, by their author, with the Ten Commandments, Magna Charta and the Declaration of Independence, Harry Hopkins may have an idea that he is a reincarnation of John the Baptist.

It is announced that a famous bridge expert will lecture this fall on how to win the peace—meanwhile it will take a few grand slams to win the war.

Southern Revolt Blocked By FDR

By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Whether by intention or not, President Roosevelt is cutting the heart out of the southern revolt against the New Deal. Every definite move which has been made in the last few months has been toward the right. The extreme left-wingers have been worried, and have staged two major battles, both of which were decisive defeats for the radicals.

The first of these was planned as carefully by the left-wingers as the military plan an amphibious operation. They goaded Vice President Henry A. Wallace into his public denunciation of Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones.

Wallace is far from being the leader of the left-wingers. He simply happens to typify, in his expressed views, their ideology, and, being in very high office, not to mention that he is just a heartbeat, as the saying goes, from the presidency, he makes an excellent front.

Jones, on the other hand, is regarded by the left-wingers as the most dangerous conservative in America. This is not because he has the most reactionary views of any prominent figure, but because he combines these conservative views with two other qualities. One is his ability to get along with the president.

The other is his political strength, produced by native shrewdness, plus the geographical electoral vote and delegate" to national convention strength advantage of living in Texas and being pals with former Vice President John Nance Garner and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn.

So Wallace was egged on by the left-wingers to attack Jones, and destroy him. The result amazed everybody, most of all the left-wingers and the southerners who had been laying the groundwork for a revolt which might endanger the fourth term.

Supposedly, both men were punished. Actually, Jones only took a light tap on the wrist. One of the left-wing radio commentators, commenting sadly on the result, said the answer was that Jones "had the president over a barrel" on this matter of responsibility for the failure to provide sufficient stockpiles of strategic materials. The left-wingers in the administration did not dare say that themselves, but they hoped it might make the president angry with Jones for a radio commentator to say it.

THE SECOND drive of the left-wingers was against Secretary of State Cordell Hull. They deliberately played up the breach between Hull and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles until Hull got mad enough to throw Welles out. But that is not what they had wanted—they had hoped the battle would get so hot that Roosevelt would accept Hull's resignation.

Defeated again, they have now begun a crusade against Hull. How it will turn out in the long run nobody knows. We only know that Hull is plenty tough in a fight, in fact that he has never lost a fight inside the administration, and we know something about the political consequences which might be expected if Hull were thrown out.

The left-wingers have one tremendous disadvantage. FDR happens to be very easily irritated when people conspire to force him to change his plans, and if there is anybody among the left wingers who is smarter than the president on publicity his name does not come quickly to mind.

Bear in mind that the left-wingers operate by publicity and what might be termed office politics. None of them has any political strength back in the grass roots. So they work through the favorite columnists and radio men. They "feed" them news and views, the "news" being the payoff for publicizing the "views." So FDR knows all about the campaign now against Hull.

Plasma In Peacetime.

Blood donations will not stop with the end of the war. The importance of maintaining blood plasma banks in peace as well as in war was brought home in the train wreck at Wayland, N. Y., where OCD Chief James M. Landis credited plasma with saving the lives of 60 persons injured in the accident.

It was also revealed that plasma reserve depots have been established by OCD in every part of the country. Even in rural districts, plasma can promptly be secured from nearby stations.

It is hoped that these blood banks will be maintained after the war. The demonstrated value of plasma in saving lives makes them an essential safety measure in every community.

The blood donor's duty will not end with the return of our armies. Giving blood to save lives is a peacetime privilege, too.—Akron Beacon Journal.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Sept. 7, 1923.

Local markets were overstocked with peaches and fine fruit was being sold at $2.75 a bushel.

Harold M. Caldwell came from Yonkers, N. Y. to become boys' work secretary of Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. David Fetter, 70, died at her home, 429 Wayne street.

Robert Nixon, 115 Lind avenue, World War veteran, was taken to government hospital at Dayton for treatment.

H. J. Dotson was speaker at a chicken-dinner meeting held in Methodist church in Butler.

Alexander M. Lee, 191½ East Second street, died while visiting in Cambridge.

Miss Laura Anderson left for Denton, Tex., to become teacher in the Industrial Arts college for Women.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brown of Friendly House returned from vacation spent in Chautauqua, N. Y.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The first prayer was offered up in congress, Sept. 7, 1774. It was offered by the Rev. Jacob Duche, rector of Christ church, Philadelphia. It so moved members of the first Continental congress at their opening session, that they gave him a vote of thanks and appointed him the first official chaplain of the country.

Dave Boone Says:

I DON'T think the king of Italy and Badoglio enjoyed Labor day especially. They didn't travel anywhere by train or auto, but it wasn't because of the gasoline shortage.

If Hitler is trying to watch all fronts at once he must be pretty dizzy and it looks like there are enough 'second fronts' to suit him even if they don't suit Joe Stalin. The bear that walks like a man is making Adolf run like a mouse.

* * *

It was two years ago that he announced Russian armies had been annihilated "never to rise again." But they've been breaking all world rising records ever since.

* * *

Here at home the scenes at railroad terminals indicated that plenty of Americans can't read and are also pretty deaf. Or else they just don't believe Joe Eastman means it when he asks them to stay home over holidays.

* * *

The traveling public is pretty selfish. Some passengers bound to or from a holiday house party act as if they thought soldiers ought to get up and give them their seats.

It Says Here:

—By D. K. W.

YOU don't have to agree with what Tom Dewey proposed to the Republicans up at Mackinac island but you've got to concede he got the skeleton out of our foreign policy closet and said "Let's not make any bones about it from now on."

He proposed an open military alliance with Great Britain. For a hundred years our foreign policy has been based on such an alliance. But it was just "understood"—not out in the open.

* * *

Such an alliance means we're going to fight oftener than we would otherwise, because it presupposes that when Britain's threatened so are we. But it also means that between wars we don't have to spend so much on our army and navy. You can take your pick. And it's not easy picking.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

U. S. Diplomacy Has Hinged on Isolation and Following British

(Editor's note—This is the first in a series of Washington Merry-Go-Round columns on the state department, now holding the spotlight in Washington.)

WASHINGTON—Except for two brief and faltering steps from 1918 to 1920 under Woodrow Wilson and from 1930 to 1932 under Henry L. Stimson, the United States has never attempted to take any world leadership for peace.

After Wilson's attempt failed, Secretary of State Stimson picked up the Kellogg pact, tried to give it teeth, and used it to the best of his ability to check the first Japanese rampage and the World war which he felt was sure to follow.

Both of these attempts were blocked, partly by inertia at home, partly by old-fashioned European diplomacy in which British balance-of-power politics played its role, and partly by lack of preparation by our own diplomats to play a major role in world affairs.

The game was too new to us. Our state department had been rutted too long in the comfortable grooves of traditional American Isolation. Our diplomats had had dinned into them with their first ABC's that the U.S.A. would keep its fleet in the Pacific, rely on the powerful British fleet in the Atlantic and Mediterranean.

Never in their wildest dreams did they conceive the day when a badly cripled British fleet would rely on the U. S. navy in European waters and that an American army would be fighting in the Mediterranean.

Britain's Seapower.

SINCE the British fleet dominated the Old World, the cardinal policy of the state department was to follow British diplomacy not only in Europe but the Near East, the Middle East and to a considerable extent the Far East. Only in Latin America did U. S. diplomats exert any degree of independence.

This is cited here now not as a criticism, but to indicate how dependent our diplomacy was in those relatively simple days, and how much our diplomacy has to learn if we are now to write a permanent peace.

This is something in which the entire nation is vitally interested. The boys at the front are not doing any name-calling now. They are not even doing much talking. But if, when they come home, they find the peace they have won, run into the ground, then they may hurl some ugly, four-letter Rooseveltian words at those responsible.

The boys who are doing the dying are glad to do it, as long as the kids they left behind won't have to do it all over again. But they didn't give anyone a blank check to follow old-fashioned diplomacy which will sign away the lives of their sons 20 years from now.

New Methods.

THEY have seen what a streamlined war department can do with new, lightning methods which have revolutionized warfare. They have seen the navy perform miracles with armor plate, radar, and listening devices. They know that American genius and American efficiency are equal to anything. They expect that genius and that efficiency to be applied to winning the peace just as effectively as they have applied it to winning the war.

Some of the president's best friends, including many inside his cabinet and his administration, feel that putting American foreign policy, and the state department which administers it, on the same streamlined basis as the war department, is the most important and neglected task facing him.

When Thomas Jefferson, the first secretary of state, moved into his headquarters in Philadelphia, he had a staff of four clerks, one French interpreter, three ministers and sixteen consuls. His letters to ministers were laboriously copied in the American letter book, required four to six weeks to reach their destination by Clipper ship, and sometimes were written in invisible ink with a notation on the outside: "To be sunk in case of danger from the enemy."

The state department has made great progress since then. Today a battery of telegraph operators working all night shifts, send and receive messages from every corner of the world. They are decoded, mimeographed, and placed on the desks of the secretary of state and his assistants within an hour after their arrival.

Covering the World.

ON THE top floors of the state department are voluminous files covering every section of the world, plus diplomatic notes and consular reports dating back to the Founding Fathers.

On paper also the state department's machinery is perfect. It is divided into geographical divisions, the European division, the Far Eastern division, the American Republics division. Under each, a man is detailed to study a certain country, its trade, politics, its leaders and its problems. Many of these men are most intelligent, and among the nation's most conscientious public servants.

The fact remains, however, that most people in the United States, even in Washington, think of the state department as a club of blue-stocking Bostonians who wield their forks with their left hands and are no more representative of American life than the Redskins whom their ancestors pushed west.

Broadly speaking this is not true. Yet there is just enough truth in it to make the picture persist. Out of the several thousand diplomats, consuls, clerks and stenographers who really make up the state department both at home and abroad, only a few deserve the epithets they get. However, these happen to be placed in strategic places where they constantly and consistently act as a cinder in the public eye.

Unfortunate Position.

THERE are two other concrete reasons for the state department's unfortunate position.

First, a sense of self-importance is inspired by association with monarchs and ambassadors which turns the head of almost every young man even though he comes from a small town, shaves his neck and has a nasal twang which sends cold shivers down the spine of the chief of protocol.

Second, it is the fact that Cordell Hull consistently has held back against getting more funds and more good men to help mould foreign policy at a time when it largely holds the nation's ftuture.

ERNIE PYLE — Roving Reporter

Here's Example of the Difficulties Encountered By Engineers In Sicily.

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY—(By Wireless)—When the 45th Division went into reserve along the north coast of Sicily after several weeks of hard fighting, I moved on with the Third Division which took up the ax and drove the enemy on to Messina.

I am still doing engineers and it was on my very first day with the Third that we hit the most difficult and spectacular engineering job of the Sicilian campaign.

You've doubtless noticed Point Calava on your maps. It is a great stub of rock that sticks out into the sea, forming a high ridge running back into the interior. The coast highway is tunneled through this big rock, and on either side of the tunnel the road sticks out of the sheer rock wall like a shelf.

Our engineers figured the Germans would blow the tunnel entrance to seal it up. But they didn't. They had an even better idea. They picked out a spot about 50 feet beyond the tunnel mouth and blew a hole 150 feet long in the road shelf.

They blew it so deeply and thoroughly that if you dropped a rock into it the rock would never stop rolling until it bounced into the sea a couple of hundred feet below.

We were beautifully bottlenecked. You couldn't by-pass around the rock, for it dropped sheer into the sea. You couldn't by-pass up over the mountain, for it would take weeks. You couldn't fill the hole, for it would keep sliding off into the water.

All you could do was bridge it, and that was a big job. But bridge it they did, and in only 24 hours.

WHEN the first engineer officers went up to inspect the tunnel, I went with them. We had to leave the jeep at a blown bridge and walk the last four miles uphill. We went with an infantry battalion that was following the retreating Germans.

When we got there we found the tunnel floor mined. But each spot where they'd dug into the hard rock floor left its telltale mark, so it was no job for the engineers to uncover and unscrew the detonators of scores of mines. Then we went on through to the vast hole beyond, and the engineering officers began making their calculations.

As we did so, the regiment of infantry crawled across the chasm, one man at a time. You could just barely make it on foot by holding on to the rock juttings and practically crawling.

Another regiment went up over the ridge and took out after the evacuating enemy with only what weapons and provisions they could carry on their backs. Before another 24 hours, they'd be 20 miles ahead of us and in contact with the enemy, so getting this hole bridged and supplies and supporting guns to them was indeed a matter of life and death.

IT WAS around 2 p. m. when we got there and in two hours the little platform of highway at the crater mouth resembled a littered street in front of a burning building. Air hoses covered the ground, serpentined over each other. Three big air compressors were parked side by side, their engines cutting off and on in that erratically deliberate manner of air compressors, and jack hammers clattered their nerve-shattering din.

Bulldozers came to clear off the stone-blocked highway at the crater edge. Trucks, with long trailers bearing railroad irons and huge timbers, came and unloaded. Steel cable was brought up. And kegs of spikes and all kinds of crowbars and sledges.

The thousands of vehicles of the division were halted some 10 miles back in order to keep the highway clear for the engineers. One platoon of men worked at a time in the hole. There was no use of throwing in the whole company, for there was room for only so many.

At suppertime, hot rations were brought up by truck. The Third Division engineers go on K rations at noon but morning and evening they get hot food up to them, regardless of the job.

If you could see how they toil, you would know how important this hot food is. By dusk the work was in full swing and half the men were stripped to the waist.

The night air of the Mediterranean was tropical. The moon came out at twilight and extended our light for a little while. The moon was new and pale, and transient high-flying night clouds brushed it and scattered shadows down on us.

Then its frail light went out, and the blinding nightlong darkness settled over the insidious abyss. But the work never slowed nor halted, throughout the night.

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

First Day of School

"TOMORROW is so long in coming, Daddy," said our six-year-old. "I waited, and the forenoon passed so slow—and I thought the afternoon would never go. Now it's evening, and bedtime, and tomorrow I go to school.

"I've never been in school. Tomorrow the big yellow bus will stop as it always does on school days, but it'll be different. Another little boy will go along that never was inside that bus before—and I'll be that very little boy! Do you realize, Daddy, that I'm six and I'll take my pencil and tablet along with me?

"I wonder if the teacher'll be surprised and if the other little boys and girls will wonder where I came from and who I am. I'm going to tell them my name, right off—then they won't call me by any other name but mine.

"You'll have to call me early so I can eat breakfast with you and mother because I'll be away until evening and I'll want to stay with you as long as I can. Then when I'm gone to school and you are gone to teach school, too—and nobody is left but little brother, who's just four, and mother, I'll bet she'll be so lonely, won't she? I guess I'll think about her when I'm in my seat at school—but maybe it'd be better to think about what the teacher told you to. Do you think so? A whole day is a long time."

THE FOURTH child starts to school, and parents know again that same quick tightening of the throat that they experienced when the first one started. Each little individual going out into the world away from home—each new and shining face upon the school bus means an adventure for at least three people, the child's parents, and himself.

We watched him climb eagerly up behind his brothers then turn and wave his little hand, with a broad smile. His baby teeth are all there, yet. His pedal car is hardly outgrown.

The dog, the turkeys, the chickens and the tadpoles in the pond will miss him, too. His younger brother will be lonesome in his play.

But the school bus takes him to a world of larger things. It means growth and normal contact with other children. We would not hold him back, but what he said is true—"A day is a long time." We will eagerly await his story when the bus comes back.
